THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.

The Last Rail to be Laid Next Monday.

Preparations to Commemorate the Event.

Services at Trinity Church To-Day—Demonstrations at San Francisco, St. Louis and Elsewhere.

The great achievement which grapples the Pacific to the Atlantic Coast with hooks of steel, though not to be fully completed until next Monday, is to be commemorated in this City to-day by a solemn thanksgiving service, at noon, at Trinity Church, but beyond this no preparations have been made here for a public recognition of the grand event. Chiming of the bells of Trinity will commence at 11:30 o'clock A. M., and be continued in the afternoon, immediately upon the conclusion of the services in the Church. The news, however, published in our telegraphic advices from Omaha, to the effect that the last rail would not be laid until Monday, may possibly necessitate some alteration of this programme.

In accordance with the resolution passed by the Chamber of Commerce at its meeting on Thursday, Messrs. Wm. E. Dodge, President of the Chamber, S. B. Ruggles, Geo. Opdyke and A. A. Low, the Committee appointed for the purpose, will to-day at noon send a telegram to the Chamber of Commerce in San Francisco, conveying the congratulations of the New-York Chamber of Commerce upon the completion of the road.

The following dispatch, dated at San Francisco, May 6, was received yesterday:

"The people of this city and of Sacramento are in a state of feverish excitement in regard to the completion of the Union Pacific Railroad. Grand preparations are being made in both places in observance of the event, which will occur on Saturday. The bankers of this city have given notice that their houses will be closed on that day, and business will be generally suspended. Arrangements have been made with the Western Union Telegraph Company so that each stroke of the hammer on the last spike driven shall be reported simultaneously at New-York and San Francisco by telegraph. Besides the silver-mounted and polished California tie, a spike of gold, a silver pick and a silver hammer, for use in the completion of the road, were forwarded to the end of the track."

The excursion train for the Eastern end of the Central road with the Commissioners and Governor Stanford and guests on board, was nearly wrecked yesterday by a large tree which had fallen across the track. The obstructions were discovered in time to preserve the passenger cars, which were uninjured; but the locomotive was thrown from the track and damaged.

The following dispatch from St. Louis was received yesterday:

ST. LOUIS, May 7.

An Omaha dispatch says:

A telegram from Fort Dodge to the Chief Engineer of the Union Pacific Road announces positively that the last rail will be laid on Monday at noon.

The celebration in this city will be the greatest affair ever gotten up. The Masons, Odd Fellows, military and other societies intend joining the procession. In the evening there will be illuminations and fireworks.

WHY THE ROAD WAS CONSTRUCTED.

California has hitherto been practically more remote than any part of Europe. So long as a three weeks' ocean voyage through the tropics must be endured, at great cost, in order to reach it, the tide of immigration was necessarily diverted elsewhere. The national troops and mails, together with all the conveniences and accessions of civilized life, had to be carried across a foreign isthmus, or by a voyage of 16,000 miles, round Cape Horn. The high price of labor, of subsistence and of transportation, all tended to check the otherwise exuberant growth. Only the very richest deposits of gold and silver could be worked with profit. The one element lacking to give a new impetus to the Western coast was a cheap and easy means of communication with the Eastern States. The intermediate Territories, also rich in precious ores, were neglected, insecure, and unavailable for general settlement, by reason of the enormous cost of transportation. The maintenance of order and tranquillity among the roving Indian tribes had become a serious item of national expenditure. The political, commercial and mineral interests called for railroad communication across the Continent at the earliest practicable day. The subject, after being abundantly canvassed by various conventions, was finally pressed upon the attention of the Government. Up to 1860, the railroad system of the East had been extending its iron arms westward, until it had reached the Missouri River at two points, and was rapidly being approached at two others on the Iowa boundary. At the outbreak of the rebellion the Pacific Railroad became more than ever a necessity, from a military point of view. In order to bind the new and powerful Pacific States and Territories to the Union, and to encourage their efforts in the common defence, as well as for the purposes of preserving order in the public domain and developing the great industrial pursuits of the Far West, the aid of the Government was generously extended to the project.

THE PACIFIC SLOPE.

The Pacific Slope of the North American Continent has been steadily and rapidly growing in commercial, political and moral importance for the past quarter of a century. Since the discoveries of the vast deposits of the precious metals, from which it is estimated no less than a thousand millions of bullion have been already drawn, the attractions of a genial climate, fertile soil and valuable markets have contributed to draw thither, and to hold as permanent settlers, nearly a million of active population. The foreign and domestic trade has already assumed respectable proportions. The annual yield of the precious metals is undiminished, while the pastoral and agricultural productions are largely increasing—even under the existing conditions of a scarcity of labor and inadequate transportation facilities. Some idea of present value and possibilities of this vast extent of country (half as large as Europe) may be gathered from the following statistics, taken from reliable sources:

The United States Commissioner of Mining Statistics gives the following estimate of the yield of precious metals from the Pacific States and Territories:

1861	$43,391,000	1865	70,000,000
1862	49,370,000	1866	75,000,000
1863	52,500,000	1867	80,000,000
1863	63,450,000

Estimated to be distributed thus:

California	$22,000,000	Idaho	$15,000,000
Oregon and Washington	8,000,000	Nevada	15,500,000
Montana	10,000,000	Colorado, Utah, &c.	10,000,000

The total amount of bullion coined at and shipped from San Francisco, for 1866, is given at $55,322,000, and for 1867, at $57,674,000; no less than $9,464,000 in silver having been shipped to China direct in two years, independently of large amounts of grain and merchandise.

The crop of cereals in California and Oregon already exceeds in value the annual gold product, and now form the chief items of export of these two young States, which a few years since imported their breadstuffs. No less than 160 first-class vessels have been freighted from the port of San Francisco during the last year with wheat and flour, destined mainly for European consumption, valued at $10,000,000. The wheat crop of California alone, in 1865, was 8,000,000 bushels; 12,000,000 bushels in 1866; and in 1867 the crop was estimated at 15,000,000 bushels. The wool crop of 1865 was 5,250,000 pounds, and that of 1866, 8,000,000 pounds. California leather and hides have a high rank in Eastern markets. The wine-culture, although still in its infancy, promises to be a large source of revenue. The coast abounds with excellent timber, and besides gold and silver, has valuable mines of quicksilver, lead, iron, coal, borax and cobalt. Hardly any natural gift is wanting to the vast territory to enable it to sustain a dense population.

TRADE WITH CHINA AND JAPAN.

A first-class line of steamships, now plying between San Francisco and Yokohama and Shanghae, has opened a new avenue to American enterprise in the rich trade of China, Japan and the East Indies; a trade which has hitherto been shared only by the Western European nations. The vessels arriving at the single port of San Francisco, in 1866, had an aggregate tonnage of 765,940, and in 1867, of 901,425 tons; the total number of passengers from foreign or distant ports being 33,871 in 1867, and upwards of 32,000 for the first six months of 1868. The carrying trade of the North Pacific Ocean promises a rapid development, and the manufacturing interests are also extending their operations.

THE PACIFIC RAILROAD ACT.

The Act of Congress approved July 2, 1862, and its subsequent amendments, provides for the construction of one main through line of railroad from San Francisco to Omaha, with three minor, tributary branches to other points on the Missouri River. The Central Pacific Railroad Company of California was authorized and entitled to construct the Western and principal portion of the Stem Line across California, Nevada and Utah, until met by the eastern portion. A new corporation—the Union Pacific Railroad Company—was chartered to build the Eastern portion; and these two Companies have built the only through line to connect the Mississippi Valley and the Pacific Ocean; carrying it forward with greater energy than was ever shown in any similar enterprise in ancient or modern times.

These roads, therefore, constitute the National Pacific Railroad Line, adopted and selected by Congress to receive the grants of the public credit, as well as the public lands; and constructed with the support, and under the supervision of the Government.

The Companies embraced in the Pacific Railroad act, and entitled to participate in the grants of Government credit for the construction of the National Trunk Line and branches, are enumerated by the Secretary of the Treasury in a tabular exhibit of the different roads, an estimate of the distances to be built under Government patronage, and the amount of bonds to be issued to each, as follows:

Trouble with the Road Hands—The Officers' Car Stopped.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Friday, May 7.

The officers' car, with Dr. Durant, Vice-President of the Union Pacific Railroad, John Duff and other gentlemen, was stopped yesterday morning at Piedmont station by the road hands, who will not permit them to leave until paid their wages. The road was barricaded and the car uncoupled, and the men stated that nothing but the passengers and mails would be allowed to proceed either way until their demands are complied with. The gang numbered about 300 men, many of whom are desperate characters. Any attempt to have moved the car would have ended in bloodshed, for they were all armed and determined to have no interference. Information received from them late last evening says everything was quiet, but the men were firm in their determination. No violence was anticipated unless an attempt to leave is made.

THE BILLIARD TOURNAMENT.

Eleventh Day—Close of the Regular Games.

Yesterday afternoon Goldthwait was defeated by Snyder, the score standing at the close 1,200 to 1,165. Snyder finished with a superb run of 193, making his average 20⅚. His other leading runs were 105, 135, 93 and 67. Goldtwait's chief runs were 132, 129, 72, 72, 72 and 72. The result of this game gives the fifth prize to Rhines, and necessitates a tie of three for the second, third and fourth prizes.

The great game between Deery and Rudolphe, upon which depended the coveted diamond cue, attracted so vast an audience that hundreds had to be denied admittance. With the view of avoiding a repetition of the indecorous scenes which characterized the contests between Rudolphe and Rhines, Rudolphe and Snyder, and Rudolphe and Foster, Mr. Michael Phelan, the manager, tendered an apology from Rudolphe, and, apprehending that there might be an interruption of the contest, Mr. Phelan cautioned the spectators against any exhibition of decided partiality, informing them that an ample force was in attendence to preserve order, and that if it should be found necessary the game would, in the interest of courtesy and fair play, be suspended, and played in private. It was also announced that any person making public proffer of a wager, after play had begun, would render himself liable to expulsion from the hall. These precautions, tending to insure a thorough and satisfactory test of skill, having met the approbation of the audience, at 8:05 o'clock the game began.

Rudolphe won the lead, and Deery counting, made 18. There were no runs of importance made until the twenty-fourth innings, when Deery counted up to 96 in admirable style, making his total 443 to Rudolphe's 266. Both men had been afforded fine opportunities for telling scores, but had failed to improve them. At the next call Deery was 515 to Rudolphe's 272, whereupon a personage in the gallery offered $100 to $75 on Eeery. The manager informed him that if he repeated the call he would be ejected. There was no more serious interruption, and in the twenty-eighth inning Deery added 99 to his total, which was now 655. Rudolphe, who seems to lose himself when he is opposed to a player presumably his equal, had not done credit to his admittedly great skill, and was but 372. Deery had managed the balls most judiciously against him several times holeing his ball for safety, which cautious and proper proceeding elicited hisses from a few. Labor as he might, and beautiful shots as he sometimes made, Rudolphe could not get in a long run, from inability to nurse the balls, and when the fifty-fifth inning had been reached, he was but 627, his antagonist being 872. Two excellent runs, one of 60 and the other of 69, shortly marked Rudolphe's play, and brought him up to within 135 of his opponent, but a run of 84 by Deery was almost immediately added to his total, and in a few more innings the call was—Rudolphe 853, Deery 1,077. Rudolphe, with a count of 57, went forward to 910, and Deery had the misfortune, in the next two innings, to go into pocket off a count, leaving the balls well together both times. Rudolphe, after making 28, also went into the pocket off a count and a promising "break." At the next call Deery was 1,134 and Rudolphe 950, and at the next it was 1,170 to 1,046, in Deery's favor. The conduct of some of the spectators was now far from courteous, and Deery's play was as much affected by it as Rudolphe's. When the former had but 6 to go, Rudolphe got the balls together and had made 75, when they rolled into a straight line. This gave Deery a chance to make his complement, and the unfortunate Rudolphe, who was so little sympathized with, was beaten 55.

The winner's average was but 14¼, which stamps the game as the poorest of the tournament. Deery made no better run than 99, and Rudolphe did not once get above 75.

This afternoon Snyder and Rudolphe will play for the second prize, and to-night Rudolphe and Foster will contend for the same, these three players having tied.

The Alabama Claims—More Newspaper Comments on Senator Sumner's Speech.

LONDON, Tuesday, May 7.

The Times to-day has another editorial article on the Alabama claims. It says England endeavored to do justice to all parties during the late rebellion, and must decline to acknowledge any other motive for her action. She has offered to submit to the arbitration of the question whether she has been culpably negligent; but she cannot go further. Extravagant misrepresentations were necessary to furnish the basis for such a policy as is foreshadowed in Mr. Sumner's speech. The Times concludes by assuring Americans that it will prove a failure.

The Telegraph also has an article on the same subject. It promises that England will give an attentive ear to reasonable propositions, but will not listen to novel pretensions. If no solution is now practicable, she will leave the questions at issue to the influences of time and the mature judgment of the American people for adjustment.

The Ireland Question—End of the Irish Church Bill Debate.

LONDON, Friday, May 7—Midnight.

In the House of Lords, to-night, the Marquis of Salisbury wanted to know if Her Majesty's Government indorsed the policy advocated by Mr. Bright, to the effect that the people must be placed in possession of the land in Ireland in greater numbers. He said the present uncertainty as to the position of the Government on the land question was injurious. Earl Granville, in reply, said he must decline to open the question. A bill on the subject would be introduced at the next session of Parliament. He assured the House that the Government would maintain the rights of property.

The House of Commons has finished the consideration of the Irish Church bill in committee.

There seems to be no doubt that the culprits belong, in every instance, to the Fenian organization. The Police have been ordered to exercise unusual vigilance.

CUBA.

The Movements in This City—Action of General Barlow.

Recruiting for a Cuban Regiment Reported Begun.

Dispatch from the Revolutionary Headquarters.

Late News from Cuba by Mail and Telegraph.

No fresh revelations were made yesterday about the much-talked-of-expedition from this City to Cuba. Marshal Barlow preserves strict silence in regard to any instructions from Washington, although it is announced by telegraph that Secretary Fish sent him a dispatch advising him to use every precaution to prevent the departure of an expedition to Cuba from this port. He is believed to have mailed an official communication to the State Department containing information of the expedition as obtained from the newspapers and private sources, and asking for orders for his guidance in the matter. These are now understood to be now on their way from Washington. On Thursday the Marshal was visited by General Adam Badeau, late Secretary to the President, but whether he brought him any instructions was not ascertained. Last evening it was currently reported that a new regiment 1,000 strong was being raised, to be commanded by Colonel James Kerrigan, who was formerly conspicuously known as a Sixth Ward politician, and who participated in the late war, besides being a member of Congress in 1861. He is regarded as a daring and adventurous man, and has unusual facilities for recruiting men among the rougher class of citizens. It is not considered improbable that he is ready to engage in the Cuban cause. A small number of printers and others, who are said to have enlisted in his enterprise, left Printing House-square early last evening, and went to a drill-room in the upper part of Broadway, whose existence has not been publicly disclosed, where they were taught in the manual of arms, with which some of the men were already acquainted. Several Cuban ladies were expected to be present to encourage them in their desire to fight for Cuba. The drills are thought to be of nightly occurrence, and have been called to the attention of the Spanish Consul, who is supposed to have detectives on the qui vive for new developments concerning the revolutionary movement in this City. We have received from F. J. Basora, Secretary of the Republican Junta, the following extract from an official dispatch from the headquarters of the Cuban revolution:

"When Bayamo fell into the hands of the patriots, the garrison of that place capitulated and bound themselves never to take up arms against the Cubans. These same soldiers and their officers, regardless of the pledge given when they surrendered, and of the kind treatment they received, have, by degrees, all returned to the enemy's ranks, and are to-day remarkable for their spirit of destructiveness and their acts of savage cruelty. Therefore, since the system of leniency which the liberators have heretofore adopted meets in this case, as in all others, with inevitable treachery, the General-in-Chief of the Cuban liberating army, Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, sends to the President of the Central Republican Junta of Cuba and Porto Rico, established in the City of New-York, a dispatch addressed to General Domingo Dulce, threatening to enforce the decree of reprisals already issued under date of the 8th of February, 1869, from the application of which he has thus far, for the sake of humanity, refrained."

The Cuban Ladies' Fair—Lecture by Du Chaillu.

The fair in aid of the Cuban cause at Apollo Hall, corner of Broadway and Twenty-eighth-street, is progressing under very encouraging circumstances. Varied and interesting attractions are nightly offered for the entertainment of visitors, which make the fair well worth attending. It is a spirited enterprise, and has enlisted the sympathy of a number of prominent American and Cuban families, and its management is intrusted to several beautiful and accomplished ladies, who are conducting it with great éclat. Last evening Du Chaillu was the most conspicuous attraction, he having volunteered to deliver his lecture on "Explorations in Africa" for the benefit of the fair. There was an ample assemblage to listen to it. He gave a vivid and thrilling account of his perilous adventures in Equatorial Africa, of his encounters with the dreaded gorilla and of the savages of that barbarous country.

Review of the Situation—The Haynau of the Island—An Infamous Proclamation—Blockade Runners and Pirates—War News—Matters at Santiago.

From Our Own Correspondent.

HAVANA, Saturday, May 1, 1869.

"The rebellion is conquered!" "It is now writhing in the agony of its death throes, and nothing remains but to firmly establish a durable peace, and with it a veritable respect for the Government of the nation which has bequeathed religion, language and civilization to an entire Continent." Such are the bombastic announcements with which the Havana Press, devoted with all the blind zeal of fanaticism, to the maintenance of Spanish authority in the Provinces which are still hers in America, and which promise at no distant day, in spite of the seeming present fiasco, to finally liberate themselves from the intolerable yoke which the bigotry, avarice and narrow-minded policy of Spain has rivetted so firmly on their necks.

Accepting the assertions of a partizan Press as true in the main, the question naturally arises as to whether the inhabitants of the province of Cuba will be accorded those liberties and immunities which the enlightened spirit of the age demands, and the true interests of civilization and progress so loudly call for. Whether the Spanish Government will profit by the lessons which the experiences of this revolution has taught her, and by the application of just and liberal laws will recognize in the Cubans something else than a people whose sole political rights have heretofore consisted in a blind obedience to the mandates of the military satraps who have governed her, and the delectable pleasures of contributing (without any representation whatsoever) enormous taxes to the periodically depleted treasury of old Spain. The consideration of the future policy of the latter country toward this, its richest province, calls forth a great many conjectures, and as its status in the future depends upon the virtue, justice and stability of the Government of Prim & Co., much of that so confidently predicted by the psuedo political economists of Cuba (for be it known that there is a mythical academy of political science and civil government here) will be contracted by coming events.

THE HAYNAU OF CUBA.

This remarkable personage, who is of Falstaffian proportions in form and figure, possesses traits of character in the blustering line which remind one now and again of honest old Jack as portrayed by the great master. A short time ago when all Spanish newspaperdom was surfeiting the intelligent public with lugubrious accounts of the "situation" in the East, and news from Count Balmaseda was looked for with keen anxiety, fears were expressed in timid whisperings for his safety, but the corpulent old hero of Napoleonic proclamations set all fears at rest by appearing before the blackened ruins of Bayamo, with loss of a few men and a little baggage. The valiant defenders of the Banner of Castile were then somewhat scarce in the "East," and the rebels thick as ants on a grand foraging expedition. Loud were the appeals of the illustrious Count for speedy reinforcements, and frequent were the issues of amnesty proclamations, done up in the most attractive style known to art. The ultra Spaniards rubbed their eyes in astonishment; the newspapers published two-column articles deprecating such a waste of clemency. The Prensa became indignant, and the lachrymose Diario de la Marina wept abundantly over the possible effects of such ill-timed generosity on the part of Blas de Villale, while the irrepressible volunteers swore more loudly than the "Army in Flanders," and declared the Count demented and a traitor to the country for offering pardon to the misguided adherents to the cause of Cuban independence. The latter, for reasons of State, or, perhaps, actuated by a feeling of generosity and regard for the character of the Count, refused to avail themselves of his amnesty, and continued their forays with increased vigor. The Count's position was critical; unable to advance for lack of sufficient troops, and his offer of pardon unappreciated by the rebels, he displayed considerable generalship by remaining quiescent, and recognizing, doubtless, in his particular case the truth of the old adage that the pen is mightier than the sword, he took to writing heroic proclamations. Troops meanwhile arrived from Spain. Count Balmaseda was once more able to assume the offensive. With artillery, infantry and well-equipped cavalry, he took the field against a nomadic force unprovided with artillery and armed in the most wretched manner. They, finding how futile was the attempt to cope with the mobilized army of the Count, adopted the only mode of warfare promising them the slightest chance of success—the guerrilla mode. Count Valmaseda, strong in the consciousness of his superiority, and indignant, doubtless, that the rebels should refuse a battle on his own terms, communed with himself at once. The result of his communings is given below in the following infamous proclamation:

INHABITANTS OF THE COUNTRY: The reinforcements I was waiting for have already arrived. With them I am going to afford protection to the good, and to chastise those who are still rebellious against the Government of the Metropolis.

You know that I have pardoned those who, with arms in their hands, have combatted us; you are aware that your wives, mothers and sisters have obtained from me a protection refused by yourselves and wondered at by them; you are aware also that many of those pardoned have again turned against me. In view of those excesses of such ingratitude and of so much villainy, it is no longer possible that I can be the man of yesterday; a lying neutrality no longer suffices; he who is not with me is against me, and in order that my soldiers may know how to distinguish you, listen to the orders of which they are the bearers.

Every man, from the age of fifteen upward, who may be found absent from his his home, that cannot give a justifiable reason for having so absented himself, will be shot.

All villages found uninhabited will be burned by the troops.

All settlements where a white cloth is not displayed in form of a flag to signify that its inhabitants desire peace will be burned to ashes. The women who may not be found in their respective dwellings or in those of their friends, will be concentrated in the towns of Figuani or Bayamo, where their maintenance will be provided for; those who do not comply with this order will be carried thither by force.

These commands will first take effect from the 14th of the present month. (Signed)

THE COUNT OF VALMSEDA.

BAYAMO, April 4, 1869.

This proclamation of Count Valmaseda, although, as will be seen from glancing at the date, promulgated on the 4th instant, did not make its appearance in Havana until three days ago, and as its provisions were to take effect on the 14th, they already have really been in effect sixteen days. I am unable to give you, however, the statistics of the murders committed or of the dwellings, towns and villages burned in compliance with this infamous proclamation. They are doubtless numerous, as the Spanish soldier possesses the most savage instincts when thoroughly aroused, and as the killing of ignorant guafiros, and the burning of their dwellings will form for them amusements of no ordinary kind. An impartial observer allied to the interests of neither faction, in criticizing this last proclamation of the Commanding General of the Eastern Department, cannot but blush for humanity, and indignantly condemn the brutal feeling that prompted its promulgation. So fire and sword are to be the order of the day in Cuba, no one can doubt that two hostile factions having for their avowed object, the distruction of the country accordingly will succeed in their common purpose. In those districts not yet affected by the revolution lists of supposed contumacious persons, some are being silently, but rapidly made out and the confiscation provided for in Gen. Dulce's decree is being silently, but rapidly carried into effect. Those Cubans who, without patriotism or common honesty enough to come out boldly and declare themselves with the cause of Cuban liberty and independence are now with rare perfidy veering round and becoming staunch supporters of the Government. Contemptible alike to their friends whom they have betrayed, and to their enemies whom they have cajoled, (but not blinded), whatever may be the fate of the rebellion, their names will be held in just execration by all true lovers of honor, principle, and patriotism.

WAR NEWS.

The Diario says the revolution is over; the Prensa says it is not; the Voz de Cuba wants more troops and severer measures, and the revolutionists are confident that they can stand it longer than the Spaniards, and will eventually wear them out. The brave and heroic Trinidad volunteers whipped the insurgents in a most terrible and decisive manner, vide the Diario, the Prensa, the Voz, and every Spaniard. They were scattered, dispersed, demoralized, and in open fight, two weeks ago, but, nevertheless, they are in every nook and corner of the jurisdiction of Trinidad, fighting troops, volunteers and everything else they come across, and making them seek shelter in the towns. The Governor of Trinidad is imitating the example of Valmaseda and a certain similarity of style in one of his proclamations. It appears that there is a regular plan to make all suspected persons come into the cities, his proclamation stating that all persons not actually needed and employed on the plantations shall come to Trinidad either voluntarily or be brought thither by force. This explains the reasons which I gave weeks ago for the reported disappearance of the Cubans, who quietly dispersed to their homes, when a respectable force of troops is at hand.

In Santiago de Cuba the shooting continues, the last execution having been that of Mr. Delfin Aguilera, formerly in the ranks of the insurgents, but recently pardoned and provided with a safe conduct by Colonel Camora.

General Latone had returned from his expedition, and his exploits had been limited to the execution of two administrators of plantations, among them M. Bizet, a Frenchman. The Ramona farm, which the Spaniards captured and reported to be a regular fort, had been the camping-ground of the insurgents some time previous to Latone's arrival.

THE SUGAR CROP.

A great deal of sugar is coming to the Santiago market, which proves that the owners have either made some arrangements with the insurgents, or that the insurgents are less formidable in the district. The emigration to the United States was continuous and increasing.

QUASIMODO.

Reported Engagements and Spanish Victories.

HAVANA, Friday, May 7.

The journals to-day publish accounts of several engagements between the troops under Count Valmaseda and the Cuban forces, in all of which the Spaniards claim the victory. Captain-General Dulce, accompanied by a battalion of volunteers, will visit Matanzas on Sunday next.

The United States flagship Contoocook sailed to-day.

From the Baltimore American, May 7.

Some of the New-York papers assert that a large steamer, said to be the steamer Peirrot, has sailed from that port, with arms, ammunition, supplies, and nearly one thousand men on board, designed to help the Cuban revolutionists in their effort to overthrow Spanish tyranny in that island. This may be so. There are many things possible of accomplishment in New-York which nobody would think of attempting elsewhere. Yet we have our doubts, and the more so because there is also a concurrent report that the steamer Chickamauga, recently cleared from here for a neighboring port, is also enlisted in the Cuban enterprise. There is nothing but very vague rumor to substantiate this. The Chickamauga took neither arms, amunition, supplies, nor men beyond her ordinary crew. She had, moreover, on board but some sixty tons of coal, which would barely serve her for four days' steaming. If she is to be engaged in the enterprise named, it can only be on the supposition that she will meet on the high seas other vessels with the supplies necessary to make her an efficient ally.

The Chickamauga was a blockade-runner during the war, and after having made a number of successful trips between English ports and Wilmington and Charleston, carrying arms and war material into the Confederacy, was sunk in the Cape Fear River, having been chased upon the shoals by a Federal gunboat. After the close of the war she was raised from her position in the sands of Cape Fear River and brought to Baltimore, where she was put in thorough running order. The Chickamauga is a long, low and rakish iron steamer, having double propellers and engines, and was one of the fastest of the swift class of steamers which were employed in running the blockade. Several times she was chased by Federal cruisers, but always distanced them.

The Sequel to the Adventure of Prince Louis de Bourbon and the Cuban Belle—The Head of the Family Indignant.

On the 15th of March last, Prince Louis Marie Ferdinand Pierre d'Alcantara, son of Count d'Aquila, the brother-in-law of the late King of Naples, cousin of Don Carlos, the aspirant to the Spanish throne, nephew to the Emperor of Brazil, and connected by other ties with half the other dethroned monarchs of Europe, made his appearance in this City, in company with Miss Amelie Isabel de Hamel, the daughter of Mr. John de Hamel, a well-known ship-broker of Havana, and a gentleman well known in this City as a frequenter of fashionable resorts, and a constant companion of many of our most fashionable citizens. The Prince and the fair Cuban, the latter accompanied and guarded by her mother, had come hither to be married, and this they hastened to do immediately on landing. But they found not a little difficulty in accomplishing their purpose; the first priest selected to pronounce the ceremony, Father Lafont, of the Church of St. Vincent de Paul, declined to do so on orders from Archbishop McCloskey; a civil marriage was decided upon; Mayor Hall happened to be absent from his office; and finally the noble parties were compelled to resort to Jefferson Market Police Court, where they were pronounced man and wife by Justice Dodge.

Now comes, after a blissfu honeymoon of nearly two months, the cruel relatives of the bridegroom protesting against the marriage. Francis II., Ex-King of Naples, having no other subjects than the sycophantic followers who share with him the charity of the Pope, which leaves him to spend the remnant of his miserable days in the Farnese Palace at Rome, considers himself the head of the family of Bourbon, and from his place in Rome sends an angry protest against his marriage to the free and independent young citizen Bourbon in his comfortable rooms in the Clarendon Hotel of this free and independent City of New-York. The protest declares the marriage null and void, and is accompanied by a threat of excommunication from the noble family of dethroned aud impoverished monarchs who bear the name of Bourbon. The young Prince is probably very little trouble by this threat, and will pay very little attention to the protest. He is said to be a very spirited young man, able to take care of himself, and not at all proud of his connection with the family which has produced in one generation a "Bomba," a Francis II. and an Isabella of Spain.

This marriage is thus far nearly a parallel with the famous Bonaparte-Patterson case. It will be remembered by those familiar with the history of the Bonapartes in America, that Jerome, the youngest brother of the great Napoleon, after his defeat in the West Indies by Toussaint L'Ouverture, the famous negro General of Hayti, came to this city, and in 1803, visited Baltimore, where he met and married Miss Elizabeth Patterson, the beautiful daughter of a rich merchant of that city. After the French Empire was declared, he visited Europe with his wife, but Napoleon I., the head of the family, as in this case, refused to recognize the legality of the marriage, and "Miss Patterson," as the French authorities insisted on calling her, was not allowed to enter France. "Miss Hamer" will probably not be allowed to step foot in the Farnese palace. Indeed, Francis II. may forbid her to enter the Naples he no longer controls; Isabella, of Spain, may warn her from the shores of that country which she has just fled from, and George of Hanover may request mildly, as becomes him, that she will not intrude herself into the Hanoverian domains which Bismarck has swallowed. It was the Pope who forbade the celebration of the marriage in this City; and he may now, unlike his predecessor in the Patterson case, pronounce the marriage null and void; but as long as they are rich and happy in this free country, the bride and bridegroom can afford to laugh at the protests of their family and the curses of their Church.

Extensive Fire in Reade and Chambers Streets—Loss Over $150,000.

At 10:30 o'clock last evening a fire was discovered in the barber shop of P. H. Hahn, in the basement of No. 57 Reade-street, and although the alarm was immediately given, and the engines promptly on the spot the flames had already gained such headway that they could not be suppressed, and soon mounted to the first floor, occupied by Jacobi's restaurant, which was also entirely destroyed. The flames were not stayed even here, but extended to the upper part of the building occupied by Hall, Southwick & Co., dealers in fancy goods, whose stock suffered very great damage by fire and water.

By some means not yet ascertained, the fire extended to the buildings Nos. 75 and 77 Chambers-street, abutting on the rear, and before the flames were got under control, these two structures had become the principal sufferers from the conflagration. The occupants of the buildings were as follows: No. 77, first floor and basements, Pedder & Morrison, dealers in trunks; second floor, Waverly Rubber Company; upper floors, B. Sondheim & Co., dealers in fancy goods; No. 75—first floor, Prescott & Co., restaurant; second floor, Peck Brothers, cutlery; and upper floors, Kamack & Son, also dealers in cutlery. Hall, Benedict & Co., dealers in boots and shoes, and Lesher, Whitman & Co., importers of clothiers' trimmings, occupying, Nos. 279, 281 and 283 Broadway, were damaged to some extent by water, in consequence of the hose being carried through to reach the roof of the burning building.

The total loss from this destructive fire will probably exceed $150,000, but it was impossible last night, owing to the confusion and the absence of the occupants, to ascertain the damage of each occupant in detail, nor to learn the amount of insurance. The buildings, which are practically destroyed, were all large stone-front edifices, and ranked first-class among the business houses of the City.

The Howard Mission at the Brooklyn Academy of Music.

The anniversary of the Howard Mission of New-York, was celebrated at the Brooklyn Academy of Music last evening. The house was filled to its utmost capacity, and the greatest enthusiasm was manifested throughout the exercises. Mr. A. S. Hatch, Vice-President of the Board of Trustees, conducted the proceedings. There were about one hundred and fifty of the Mission children present, who sang several songs and hymns to the evident satisfaction of the vast audience. Addresses were made in support of the Mission by Rev. William H. Boole, of the South second-street Methodist Episcopal church, Williamsburg, and Oliver Dyer, Esquire, of New-York. Mr. Dyer, in the course of his remarks descriptive of the homes or haunts from which the poor children were gathered, took occasion to state that he had been informed by Superintendent Kennedy, of the Metropolitan Police, that, at the present rate of wickedness in the Metropolis, he would give New-York twenty-five years to be an ultra ruin—a desolation. The appeals made to the audience were earnest and effective, for the response in contributions was of a very liberal character.

OUR WORKING CLASSES.

The Strength of the Trades' Unions—Better Means than "Strikes" to be Had by the Laborers—The Land and Building Societies—How they Operate—The Eight-Hour Argument of the Laborers.

We reproduce, for greater convenience in further considering the subject, the recapitulation of the tables lately published, showing the strength of the various trade organizations of this City.

Trades.	No. of men in Unions.	Per cent. increase of wages.	Bank acc'nt.
I. Building trades	16,325	83	$20,000 00
II. House furnishing	11,287	73	5,604 00
III. Clothing trades	6,979	75	2,271 84
IV. Printing and publishing trades	3,060	57	1,300 00
V. Miscellaneous trades	28,448	62	28,951 69
Total	66,099	70	$58,126 69

Additional and later information adds to the total of bank account, without altering the proportions, men, money and percentage of wages, and for our purpose the present table uncorrected in detail will be sufficient.

The fact which will strike the casual reader most forcibly in this table is that the more complete the organization and the greater the strength of the unions, the larger the bank account and the proportionate increase of wages of 1869 over those of 1860. It is evident that with the trades, as with nations and individuals, there is strength in union; and it is also true, as we have before shown, that in strikes as in other wars it is the weakest who goes to the wall. The table is another proof of the argument already elaborated in these columns that the main power of the mechanics of this country lies in their trades' unions.

It must be remembered, in further considering the subject, that the sums held in their corporate capacity do not represent the total sum controlled by the unions, but simply the difference between the receipts and the expenditures of a corporation actively engaged in supporting indigent members or in supporting strikes. Thus, for instance, the Typographical Union, which is the largest and wealthiest of the trades' organizations, shows, in the detailed tables, no bank account just at this time, because it has spent about $16,000 lately in sustaining a long strike, not yet closed. The actual strength of the unions in money is probably several times larger than the sum named. In an emergency, if one could occur in which all the unions could become mutually interested, the 66,099 members of the various unions in this City could raise at once $500,000.

Even this does not fully represent their moneyed power, because they could raise an equal sum more than once and in the course of the year, as they do when it is wanted, for instance, for "strikes," as they occur, or as they might do for better purposes, as they present themselves in favorable opportunities for coöperation. Besides their weekly wages, on which to draw as a fund, the working classes of this City have in our savings banks, for the want of better places of deposit, in building associations on the English, or banks on the German coöperative plan, a very large sum of money, available at short notice for any industrial enterprise. In 1860 there were in this City eighteen savings banks, in which 196,997 depositors had deposited an aggregate amount of $43,410,083. In 1868 we had twenty-eight savings banks in, which 307,192 depositors had laid away $86,574,343. This was an increase in eight years of ten banks, (fifty per cent.;) 110,195 depositors, (about sixty-five per cent.,) and deposits $43,164,260, (nearly 100 per cent.) One bank alone, the Sixpenny Savings, had in 1860, 8,369 depositors and $146,294 deposits; in 1865, (December,) 24,763 depositors and $480,000 deposits, and on the 1st of January, 1869, it had 40,037 depositors and $1,050,204 deposits. Our working classes have never, and do not yet understand their own value, or the value of their own money in its monetary sense. With the proceeds of their labor combined, they ought to be the manufacturing capitalists of America. But in this, as in everything else, even to the purchase of their daily supplies of food, they submit to the exactions and dictation of the middle-men. The real producer of wares is kept as far from the purchaser as the consumer is from the producer of provisions.

We have presented these figures less to reinforce our previous statements as to the strength of the unions, than to suggest, in the interest of the working classes, that there are better ways of investing this available capital than in "strikes." With the sums which they have in bank, in corporate and individual capacities, properly combined and utilized and directed, what might they not accomplish for themselves? There are more effective means of regulating wages than by "strikes," and they are means which have the additional advantage also of being highly remunerative. These means now urging themselves on the attention of all intelligent laboring men are:

1. Coöperative establishments.
2. Coöperative building associations.
3. Coöperative banks.

The first means look to the wise investment and the extensive employment of capital in small sums; the last two to the judicious expenditure or remunerative saving of incomes. We have before given some account of the coöperative movement in this country among printers, iron-moulders and others, and have no new information or arguments to offer on that point. The TIMES of April 28 contained a full, clear and interesting account of the German coöperative banks organized by Herr SCHULTZE DELISETH. Our present purpose is to give a brief account of the English land and building associations, illustrating their operation and benefits. There are several of these societies already existing in this City and in active and successful operation. Their operations, like those of the English, are based on the fact that tenants pay to landlords a much larger sum under the name of rent for ground and house leases than the ordinary interest upon the sum which would buy the house and ground. By becoming a member of one of these building societies, the principal paid by the society for the ground and house is paid off by the member at long or short intervals in the form of rent. There are at this time no less than 700 of these building societies in the City of London, engaged in buying and building in the suburbs of that city. Whole estates of impoverished noblemen are sometimes bought by a single company. The "Good Luck Freehold Land Society" owns several such estates, which are being disposed of in building lots to members by allotment.

The shares of the Good Luck Freehold Land Society are fixed at £30—say $150 in gold. They are payable either in one sum at the time of subscription, or by installments of not less than three shillings (75 cents) per month, on which he is allowed 5 per cent. interest.

Having become a member of the Society, he comes in for his chances of an allotment. Paid-up shares, of course, have the preference of choice and priority of occupation; the others are allotted by rotation or ballot. The building lots are valued at so many shares, and when the whole amount of these is paid up the land passes into the possession of the shareholder; but he may build on them at any time after the allotment, even if he has paid no more than the first shilling which makes him a member. As the shares belonging to this and other London societies are in the neighborhood of London, their value is highly speculative. Railways are running in every direction, and these plots may stand in the way, and may, consequently, at any moment be doubled in value. With this view, many of the shares of the Good Luck Society are held by speculators. The shares, however, are confined, as far as possible, to their legitimate object of furnishing plots for poor men to build upon.

Having thus secured his ground, but having nothing with which to build his house, the workingman also becomes a member of the "Good Luck Permanent Benefit Building Society," which, on the same plan, either builds his house or lends him money to do it himself, charging him, however, 7½ per cent. for his money. The shares of the Building Society are £50 or $250 each; the entrance fee 2s. 6d., (60c.,) and the monthly repayments or installments of the loan 6s. 6d., or $1 60. Immediately on making the first payment he becomes a member, and if he wishes to buy the house he is living in, or any other, or to have one erected on his own land, he must enter his name in the ballot and take his chances of getting the advance at once with the other members. If, however, he fail in this, he can "register for the advance," as it is termed, and at the expiration of six months the Society will lend the amount required without further trouble; or he may purchase the right to an advance, at a premium, from another member who has been lucky enough to obtain one.

In their circulars the "Good Luck" managers furnish tables, in the style of the insurance companies, showing the operations of loans. One of these before us supposes a workman to be living in a house worth £300 ($1,500) on leased ground, for which he pays the heavy rent of £35, ($175.) In order to secure it the member would be required to hold six shares. The payments, &c., would then be, supposing, further, that the arrangement is for twelve years, as follows, the pounds and shillings being given in dollars and cents for greater convenience:

Yearly subscription and interest on one share	$31 44
Number of shares held	6
	$188 64
Add for ground rent	25 00
Gross yearly payment	$213 64
For twelve years	$2,563 68
Deduct twelve years' rent at $175	2,100 00
Total cost of house	$463 68

If the member is not able to pay $213 64 annually in liquidation of the sum, the time may be extended to twenty-one years, and the following table represents the operation of the loan:

Yearly rent of house		$175 00
Number of years		21
Total amount of rent		$3,675 00
Yearly subscription and interest for one share	$22 82
Number of shares	6
	$136 92
Ground rent	25 00
Gross yearly payments	$161 92
For 21 years		$3,400 32
Clear gain, after paying principal, interest and ground-rent		$274 68
Add to this the value of the house		1,500 00
And we have, as the total profit of the transaction, the sum of		$1,774 68

In the event of the failure to make the payments regularly, provision is made to relieve the member temporarily. Of course, if the failure to pay continues, the shares would have to be sold, to refund the Society for advances made by it. Also, provision is made in case of the death of a member before the mortgage of the Society is paid off. This provision takes the form of assurance, and is a prominent feature of the plan. By a trifling monthly payment the member may provide against such a contingency by means of what is called a "guarantee annuity policy," which provides the sum wanting to pay off the mortgage at any moment the member may die short of that period. By taking this precaution, the member may assure to his wife and family the possession of his house the next moment; in fact, after he has paid his first installment and the insurance.

It is through the operations of these and other coöperative organizations that the workingmen can soonest secure their independence and the trades unions best employ their funds. They answer indirectly the same end that strikes do, and are remunerative, while strikes are expensive; these are the cheap and peaceful, strikes are the extravagant and warlike methods of attaining the end really aimed at—independence. By the employment of these wiser means the great majority of our workingmen might become their own employers and capitalists. They might become possessors of real estate, build their own houses, and live in them without fear of being turned out when May day comes round. They might establish savings banks for themselves; might in a thousand ways become owners of property or business, and be interested in making money otherwise than by the daily labor of their hands. Why, then, don't they do it or undertake to do it? Certainly not for want of intelligence. Is it not lack of confidence in each other. As all cannot be managers, there is a feeling of distrust in the breast of each against his fellow. And this feeling keeps workingmen within the grasp of their employers more than any other cause.

THE EIGHT-HOUR ARGUMENT.

The next most important question agitating the working classes is the restriction of the hours of labor. The workingmen who are leading the movement in this City put forward some strong and cogent reasons, not the least important of which is that long hours of labor are opposed to the interests of property holders in the vicinity of New-York on the ground that it prevents laborers from living at a distance from the centre of labor. The enforcement of the eight-hour system is also demanded as a sanitary measure. "Crowding into tenement-houses," they urge, "must necessarily follow long hours and small wages, and these will always produce crime and disease, and materially increase the burdens of the tax-payers. The annual reports of the Commissioners of Charities and Correction show that there is a lack of accommodation in the institutions under their charge for the pauper and criminal class, and they call for additional room. The Governor of this State has likewise recently suggested to the Legislature the necessity and propriety of creating another State Prison. And a similar state of things exists in Great Britain and on the Continent. It must always be so as long as men are treated like beasts of burden and not as intelligent human beings. But with shorter hours men could accomplish more labor and do it more intelligently, because of the increased rest and recuperation of the physical and mental powers. They could get out into the pure air of the country and away from those living prisons in which they spend their days, and months, and years now, and they should at the same time escape the many snares and temptations that beset their pathways here. Their children could be brought up pure and virtuous, and New-York and every other large city would be greatly the gainer. While all the criminals come not from the working classes, a very large proportion of them do, and nearly all the paupers belong thereto. But the application of science to all conditions of labor and the progress of invention give ample security that productive industry cannot possibly suffer by shortening the hours of toil. It will not be disputed that more work can be accomplished now in ten hours than could be done twenty-five or fifty years ago, working as was the custom then, from sunrise till sunset. Every year mind is gaining new victories over matter, and there is no good reason for doubting that, with the same degree of progress in the future as in the past, a time will come, and that soon, when men shall have little else to do, in productive industry at least, than to guide the forces of nature which they have controlled to do their bidding. Then a man will be more precious than gold, even than the golden wedge of Ophir. Every year is adding to the value of men, and of workingmen in particular; and the last decade has increased their worth more than a thousand fold, not only here but throughout the world."

The evils which naturally result from an overcrowded market cannot be remedied by "strikes," and to this feature attention is also being directed. The law of supply and demand will always, to a great extent, determine the rates of wages to be paid for any particular class of work. One way in which an equilibrium can be maintained in the labor market in this and other large centres is for workingmen to organize labor bureaus among themselves, as their brethren in Great Britain and on the Continent of Europe have done. Such a bureau might be easily maintained among such trades as have national unions, as for instance the bricklayers, cigar-makers, iron-moulders, machinists and blacksmiths, carpenters, printers, shoemakers, and others. It need not involve any additional expense, or, if any, very little. In those national unions named, each local Secretary is required to correspond with the General Secretary, and to furnish him with the condition of their respective unions and the state of trade in each locality. The General Secretary then issues a monthly or quarterly report containing this information, which is sent to members all over the country. Now, if this officer or the President of the National Union was authorized to transfer members of their craft from one locality to another, according to the fluctuations of trade and the demand for labor, very much of the misery now charged to glutted labor markets might be avoided.

It will perhaps be objected here that men of families cannot so readily pull up stakes and travel at the bidding of any society. But there are hundreds of unmarried men in every trade organization who have no special ties to bind them to one place more than another. But there need be very little inconvenience produced by the adoption of such a system if the mechanics will forward the constantly arriving emigrant artisans to fields of labor less stocked than this, and where their services will be remunerated. It is this surplus from Europe that affects trade here so much and so unfavorably, rather than the natural increase of "home-made" mechanics. It is but natural that employers should seek and accept the cheapest labor they can get, and it is equally natural and just for mechanics to strive for the highest sum which their labor will bring in the market. Singly and alone individual workmen can never hope to succeed in a trial of strength and endurance with individual employers. Trade unions may do better, but they, too, must fail in nine cases out of ten in a contest against organized capital. Both parties are sure to be injured, and the poor man, being the least prepared, suffers most. The game is a losing one for all the players. Society is so constituted that "if one member suffers, all the members suffer with it."

The Recent Homicide at Charlotte Court-House, Virginia.

From the Richmond Dispatch, May 5.

From persons who were present at Charlotte Court-house on Monday we gather the following particulars of a most lamentable homicide which occurred there on that day, resulting in the death of JOE HOLMES, a colored man, well known to our readers as a member of the Virginia Constitutional Convention. Early in the morning Mr. JOHN MARSHALL, Jr., met a colored man named MINNIE, who was formerly a slave of Captain GILLIAM, and asked him if he was the man who attempted his life some time ago. The negro, without making any reply to the question, immediately raised his bludgeon as if to strike MARSHALL, who drew his pistol. The negro then took to his heels, and was pursued by MARSHALL and some of his friends, and it was rumored during the day that he had been killed by them.

Such, however, was not the fact, for he was alive and well and at his work yesterday. About 2:30 o'clock on Monday, while the rumor was rife, the question of arresting MARSHALL was agitated, and HOLMES made himself very officious in regard to it. MARSHALL spoke to him about it, and he made some insulting reply, when Mr. BOYD, a friend of young MARSHALL, struck him with a stick. HOLMES then drew, or attempted to draw, his pistol, when he was fired at by some unknown party. HOLMES immediately retreated, and, when near the Court-house door, turned and fired at the young men, when several shots were fired at him, only one, however, taking effect. HOLMES had strength enough left to walk to the Court-house, and fell dead.

The deceased was a prominent member of the late Constitutional Convention, prominent rather from the merriment he created on rising to speak than from any participation in the serious work of the body. He was good-natured, polite, and a great favorite with the reporters, to whom he was specially courteous, and whose daily appearance he always greeted with a broad laugh. The nearest we ever knew of him to come to a quarrel was a laughable row with Dr. BAYNE over the disputed ownership of a law book. JOE'S death will be regretted by all who knew him in the Convention, and by those who have laughed over him in the Humors of Reconstructions, where he figured as the "great fire-eater."

ORGAN-PLAYING BY ELECTRICITY

Curious and Ingenious Invention—Probable Revolution in Church-Organ Playing.

There is on exhibition at the factory of Messrs. HALL, LABAUGH & Co., No. 5 Bedford-street, in this City, an invention which bids fair to come into general use among church organists. The matter we refer to is an electro-organ action, by the use of which the performer may play the instrument with precision, though he be seated one, two, or three hundred feet therefrom. In fact, distance offers no bar at all to his manipulations of the organ, the principle on which the operation is based being similar to that of the telegraph. The inventor is Mr. HILBURNE L. ROOSEVELT, of this City, a practical organ builder, and an excellent musician. The invention consists in using electric power in such a manner that the valves in the pipes of the instrument are opened and closed at will by the organist. A common key-board is used by the performer, and this may be placed in any position and as far from the instrument as is desirable. Surmounting the key-board, and just back of the ivory plating on the keys, is a small trough, not more than three-quarters of an inch in width, running across the whole and partially filled with quicksilver. Each key has a small wire firmly screwed on to the back of it, just outside the pivot on which it works when pressed down in playing. The act of pressing down the key brings the end of this wire, which is arched over the inner side of the trough, into the mercury, where it remains immersed so long as the performer's finger is on the key. The other end of this wire connects with an electric battery; first, however, passing through a magnet in front of each pipe in the instrument corresponding with the keys. When the end of the wire attached to the key is drawn into the quicksilver trough, an electric current is instantly sent to the magnet, which operates upon and opens the valve in the pipe, and sounds the note struck on the key-board just as if the organist were playing after the usual manner. The mercury in the trough, we may remark, is covered over with glycerine, which prevents its being affected by dust or dirt. A small automatic bellows acts upon the pieces of zinc that are immersed in the acid cups to produce the electric magnetic current. This is filled with wind from the regular organ bellows, and closes of its own accord when the instrument is not in use, thus lifting the zinc plates from the cups, and destroying the electric continuity. The touch of an organ having this improvement affixed to it is no heavier than it would be without it. By a very simple arrangement, an organ having three banks of keys may be played with the same facility as one having only a single key-board. Many eminent performers have examined the invention, and speak of it in terms of praise.

ANOTHER TOILER IN TROUBLE.

An Intelligence Agent Encounters the Prevailing Prejudice, and is Committed for Trial.

Yesterday it became the duty of the TIMES as a faithful chronicler of current events, to state the untoward fate that had overtaken SAMUEL COX and VAN WAGNER, employment agents, because certain of their customers were so unreasonable as to object to being swindled, and it now devolves upon us to tell how one FRANK CALLMEYER was plunged into a deep sea of troubles in a similar way.

FRANK CALLMEYER has had a checkered life, in the course of which he has done the State some service. Something more than two years ago he flourished in this City as an employment agent, but certain of his practices being decided to be unlawful by the Judges of the law, CALLMEYER was sent to Sing Sing for a two years' term, as a condonement for defrauding the hard-handed sons of toil of their meagre substance by the false pretence of getting them employment. Three months ago the period of FRANK'S enforced honesty terminated, and, returning to this City, he resumed operations with great vigor. His first step was a most audacious larceny, for, seeking to hide his identity under the shadow of a great name, he established himself again in the employment-agency business as Henry Clay & Co., at No. 189 Grand-street.

Yesterday various of his customers poured into the ears of Marshal TOOKER their doleful stories, telling how they had paid this Clay money to obtain situations which they had not got, and thereupon the license of CALLMEYER alias Clay was revoked. Not content with this meagre measure of justice, the complainants went to Justice MANSFIELD, of the Essex Market Police Court, who sent out a posse of officers and promptly produced the enterprising agent in Court. CALLMEYER represented himself as a persecuted man, for he averred that he had paid all these people their money back and he was not quite sure, but one of them had also obtained a situation. He had endeavored, he plaintively added, to toil honestly through the world, but he found there was so much prejudice against his business that he was afraid he would be forced to abandon it. The Magistrate admitted the prejudice and as a means of making sure that CALLMEYER, should abandon the business, took six complaints of false pretences against him, on all of which he was held for trial.

The Wilson Perjury Case—The Accused Committed for Trial.

THOMAS EARLY and MARTIN REED, whose arrest on the complaint of Fire Commissioner WILSON has been noticed in the TIMES, were yesterday committed without bail by Justice LEDWITH for trial on a charge of perjury. It appears that REED brought suit against Commissioner WILSON before Judge CURTIS of the Marine Court for $275, which he alleged he had paid WILSON to get him on the Police force, which the latter had done, and having made oath to this he was corroborated by EARLY. Commissioner WILSON denied that he had ever asked, or been paid or promised any money for the service, but admitted that he had REED put on the Police force, but he had been rejected by the examining surgeon as physically incompetent. A judgment was rendered against WILSON, and the arrest for perjury instantly followed as narrated yesterday.

Another Car Pickpocket.

CHARLES DREYBUSCHER, residing at No. 443 West Thirty-sixth-street, appeared in the Tombs Police Court-room, yesterday, and made affidavit that on Thursday evening he got upon the platform of an Eighth-avenue car, at the corner of Canal-street and West Broadway, when HENRY ADAMS and two unknown men impeded his progress and jostled him before he could enter the car. DREYBUSCHER soon after discovered that his pocket-book, containing a small sum of money, had been abstracted from his pantaloons pocket. As he was looking for his property, DREYBUSCHER noticed ADAMS jump off the car and run away, when the victim followed in pursuit and succeeded in capturing him. The suspected pickpocket fastened his guilt upon himself by exclaiming, "I have not got your pocket-book; that's the one who took it," at the same time pointing to a confederate, who immediately made good his escape. ADAMS was arraigned, and, as he had no defence to make, was fully committed for trial. He is a native of New-York, aged 33, and lives in Wooster-street.

THE WARREN-STREET AFFRAY.

Notice having been sent to the Coroners' office yesterday that OWEN LEARY, the man who was stabbed on Thursday in Warren-street, was in a critical condition, Coroner FLYNN at once proceeded to the New-York Hospital and obtained the ante-mortem statement of the wounded man. The facts attending the affray were fully narrated in these columns yesterday. LEARY professed himself as doubtful of his ultimate recovery, and made the following statement:

"Myself and the prisoner JOHN GALLAGHER were working together in the shoe manufactory of G. C. & T. MORROW at Nos. 41 and 43 Warren-street. About 12 o'clock yesterday, (Thursday,) while I was at my work, the prisoner came over to me and began to speak about women in an immoral way, when I told him to go away; he did not do so but continued his conversation, when I struck him in the face with my fist. The prisoner took a shoe knife which was lying on the bench and stabbed me twice in the abdomen; I fell down, when several of the men in the shop took hold of the prisoner and prevented him from hurting me any further; an officer was called who conveyed me to this Hospital; I recognize the prisoner, JOHN GALLAGHER, as the man who stabbed me.

The case being submitted to a jury they rendered a verdict against GALLAGHER, and he was accordingly committed by the Coroner to the Tombs to await the result of LEARY'S wounds.

The Bogus Check Case.

JOHN R. PEACOCK, of No. 33 Beekman-street, made affidavit yesterday before Justice HOGAN, of the Tombs Police Court, stating that on the 23d of March LEWIS M. CREIGHTON had persuaded him to advance $11 35 on a check for that amount, purporting to have been drawn on the Marine National Bank by L. Z. PECK, to the order of the prisoner, and duly indorsed by him. JOHN R. PEACOCK, Jr., testified that on presenting the check at the bank he had been refused payment, as there was no such name as L. Z. PECK on their books. The prisoner denied the charge, but was held for trial in default of bail. He is also accused of other and similar practices, though no complaint has been made as yet.

A Burglar in a Barrel.

PETER SCHULTZ, a porter employed in the store of Messrs. RUNK & ODELL, at No. 336 Washington-street, discovered on Thursday evening as he was closing the place that a man had concealed himself in an empty prune cask on the third floor of the building. The fellow was forthwith placed in the custody of an officer, and after a night's sojourn in the cells was arraigned before Justice HOGAN at the Tombs. Mr. WM. RUNK preferred a charge against the prisoner—who gave his name as SAMUEL BAKER—for an attempt to steal a portion of his stock of spices and coffee, and BAKER was accordingly locked up for trial in default of bail. He is a cooper, a native of England, and resides at No. 3 West Twenty-third-street. He denied his guilt, despite the evidence against him.

An Attempt at Self-Destruction.

At about 12:30 P. M. a woman was seen to jump off from the Battery extension wall into the water. Sergeant DOYLE and Patrolmen LAWLER and DOYLE, who were at hand, made all possible haste to rescue her. She was taken on board the police steamer Metropolitan, where she was kindly cared for by Mrs. Captain HARTT, who happened to be on board at the time. She gave her name as MARY CARRIGAN—single—about 30 years of age; had been in the country about three years, and resided in New-Jersey. Being without friends, and alone among strangers, she formed the rash design of destroying herself, in which, but for the prompt action of the officers, she would beyond all doubt have succeeded.

Alleged Mutiny and Murder.

The five sailors charged with mutiny and murdering the third mate of the American bark Java, were brought before Commissioner OSBORN yesterday. Their names are PARKER, ROBINSON, LIFTON, CANNING and HARRISON. The examination was postponed to enable the prosecution to bring witnesses from Boston. The account given by one of the prisoners is that a "muss" occurred one night while the bark was lying at anchor in the Straits of Gibraltar. The third mate, a colored man named JOHN W. JONES, was hurt badly. The men took a boat and left the ship, and were subsequently arrested on a Dutch steamer bound for Boston.

The Shoe Robbery.

Detective TULLEY, of the Fifteenth Precinct, yesterday produced DOMINICK STRAUSSER, formerly of No. 231 William-street, who had been arrested as another of the receivers of the boots and shoes stolen from HENRY LUX, No. 743 Broadway, by ABRAHAM GREENWOOD, the errand boy. In this case the detective found the prisoner in possession of goods worth $60, for which he paid $4 80, and STRAUSSER was therefore committed for trial by Justice LEDWITH, at the Jefferson Market Police Court.

Caught in the Act.

JOSEPH JOHNSON, aged 19, a native of this City, residing at No. 73 New Chambers-street, was on Thursday evening detected in the act of leaving the store of ALONZO D. HAIGHT, at No. 239 Broadway, with $65 worth of cigars. The thief was immediately arrested, and on being brought before Justice HOGAN at the Tombs, yesterday morning, confessed his guilt and was remanded for trial at the General Sessions.

Arrest of a Supposed Forger.

Mr. EGBERT VAN EYCK, who goes by the name of Mr. Egbert, and plays the part of Sebastian in the "Tempest" at Pike's Opera House, was arrested, Thursday evening, after the play, on a charge that he has forged twelve checks on the United States Treasury and obtained $1,200. He was brought before a United States Commissioner yesterday morning, and committed for examination in default of $5,000 bail.

LAW REPORTS.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS—MAY 7.

Before Judge Clerke.

RECEIVER TWEED AND THE PACIFIC RAILROAD—THE SUIT AGAINST THE ROCK ISLAND COMPANY—MOTION TO REMOVE TO THE FEDERAL COURT.

Wm. M. Tweed, Jr., as Receiver, &c. of the Property of the Union Pacific Railroad Company vs. John F. Tracy and the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad Company.—In this action Mr. Tweed, as receiver of the property of the Union Pacific Railroad Company in this State, or within its jurisdiction, or which may hereafter come into this State, brings his action against the Rock Island Company and John F. Tracy, and in his complaint alleges, among other things, that, as he is advised, there are a great number of first mortgage bonds of the Union Pacific Railroad, and also bonds of the United States Government which have been issued to the latter Company, deposited with defendant, Tracy; that the latter, for the purpose of safe keeping, and with a view to secrete them from plaintiff, has placed them in the safe of the Chicago and Rock Island Company. As receiver, the plaintiff asks the Court to decide that the bonds may be declared to be the property of the Union Pacific Railroad Company; that defendants be adjudged to deliver them to the plaintiff, and that they be restrained from parting with them to any persons other than the plaintiff.

The only defendants served are the Chicago and Rock Island Company, who appeared and filed a petition and bond in pursuance of the several acts of Congress in that respect, to have the case removed to the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District. The argument of this motion came on to-day.

Mr. Charles Tracy, in behalf of the defendants, urged that the action should be removed under any one of three acts of Congress. He claimed first that the Court should grant the motion in pursuance of the act of 1789; second, that defendants had a right to have the cause removed by virtue of the act of 1866, which he termed the injunction act; and, thirdly, under the act of Congress passed in 1867, that where a defendant, by petition, swears that by reason of prejudice or local influence he is convinced that he will not be able to obtain justice in the State Court, the removal will be granted.

Judge CLERKE said that the statute last referred to is a most astonishing one.

Mr. Field, in behalf of the plaintiff, concurred. He said that if the system of legislation on this subject, which had been commenced by the United States Congress, were to be continued, we would soon have no State Courts. It was not true, as in some cases alleged, that justice cannot be administered in the State tribunals. Further on in his argument he contended that the petition is defective for the reason that it was not filed at the time of entering an appearance. Besides, they had put in only a qualified appearance. He thought the motion was made mainly for delay.

Mr. Tracy—The truth is that causes in the United States Circuit are reached much quicker than they are in the State Circuits.

Mr. Field contended that it would be at least five years before this case is reached on the regular calendar, provided it is transferred.

Mr. Tracy, in reply, insisted that the petitioner is entitled to an absolute order on the petition being filed and the sureties to the bond being accepted. The plaintiff could have brought his suit in the United States Circuit in the first instance. The plaintiff, Tweed, being a citizen of this State, and both defendants being citizens of other States, the Federal Court has original concurrent jurisdiction with the State Court. The plaintiff having made his election to sue in the State Court the acts of Congress give defendants, in cases like the present, an option to defend in the State Court or to have the cause transferred to the Federal Court.

This proposition was denied by the plaintiff's counsel, who cited several authorities in support of his position. The decision of the Court was reserved.

For plaintiff, Messrs. Field and Shearman; for defendants, Messrs. Charles Tracy and Clark Bell.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART I.—MAY 6.

Before Judge Jones and a Jury.

WHAT CONSTITUTES DELIVERY.

William Moses vs. George W. Banker et al.—During July, 1866, the plaintiff in this action sold to defendants who constitute the firm of Banker & Carpenter, oil of the value of $1,129 57, cash on delivery. While the oil was being removed from the trucks to the sidewalk in front of defendant's store, and before being removed into the store, it was seized by the Sheriff by virtue of an attachment against the property of one William K. Van Bokkelin, and subsequently sold under execution in the same action. Plaintiff now sues for the value of the oil, and in opposition the defendants allege title to the oil to have been in Van Bokkelin and not in plaintiff, and that there was no delivery of the property to them prior to the seizure by the Sheriff. There was evidence in the case on the part of plaintiff tending to show that at the time of seizure a portion of the oil was unloaded in front of the defendants' store, under the supervision of employes of the defendants, and it was claimed that that act constituted a delivery. The jury found a verdict in favor of plaintiff for the sum of $541.

COMMON PLEAS—TRIAL TERM—PART I.—MAY 7.

Before Judge Daly and a Jury.

MISREPRESENTATION—DIFFERENCE OF OPINION.

Lewis W. Phillips et al. vs. Benjamin O. Smith et al.—In November, 1865, defendants advertised for sale a coal-yard which was occupied by them in Brooklyn. The plaintiffs responded to the advertisement and concluded a purchase of the shed, fixtures in the yard, scales, office, horses and carts, &c., for the sum of $1,250 cash. In the negotiations preceding the purchase, plaintiffs claim that the defendants represented to them that the premises could be had from year to year for at least four years, by prompt payment of the rent; that the property belonged to minor heirs who would not come of age before that time, and on the plaintiffs desiring an interview with the guardian in reference to a renewal of the lease, they were informed by the defendants that he, the guardian, lived somewhere in Mulberry-street, but was then out of town, and that they had authority to give them assurance of a continuance of the lease. On these alleged representations plaintiffs purchased, and found a month subsequently thereto that the landlord of the premises lived next door thereto, and, on consulting him, were informed that he had given no authority to defendants to make the representations they had in relation to the continuance of the lease, and, moreover, that he would require possession of the premises on the 1st of May following. The object of the plaintiffs in purchasing the yard being to establish a business for the sale of a new kind of coal known as "Cameron" coal, used by blacksmiths and iron-founders, the short time during which they found themselves permitted to occupy the yard would not warrant them in opening it. They therefore disposed of the material purchased from the defendants in the best way they could, abandoned their project, and now bring suit for damages, amounting to $1,500, against the defendants, founding their action on the alleged misrepresentations concerning the continuance of the lease. On the question of these representations, the parties were in direct conflict, each backing his own version by circumstantial facts; and on the question of the value of the property in the yard were almost equally far apart, the plaintiffs estimating the value of the two horses purchased, (both of which died within a week after the sale) at $25. While the defendants valued the same animals at $400, "and cheap at that," and as to the value of the other property the difference of opinion was equally great. The whole property sold for $225, though the defendants estimated it as fully worth the amount paid, $1,250.

The Judge told the jury that as regards the representations it was purely a question of veracity between the parties, from the decision of which they must not shrink from motives of delicacy; and with respect to the value of the property and consequent damage to the plaintiffs, if any, it was for them to form a reasonable estimate between the widely-conflicting testimony on both sides.

The jury found in favor of plaintiffs for $1,000.

Ex-Judge Slosson for plaintiffs; E. H. Clark for defendants.

POLICE COURTS.

The Tombs—Hogan, Justice.

WATCHES STOLEN.

David J. Howell, of No. 57 Barclay-street, caused the arrest of Charles B. Howell yesterday, on a charge of having, on the 15th of February last, stolen from him a silver watch. The prisoner confessed his guilt and was committed.

James Hutton was also arrested yesterday, and arraigned to answer a charge of having stolen a silver watch from John Mullcahy, of No. 71 Maiden-lane, on the 30th ult. As the accused admitted the fact he was fully committed for trial.

THE KNIFE.

Henry Mylan, of No. 22 Batavia-street, quarreled yesterday with John Johnson, of No. 284 Front-street, and during the fight which ensued cut his opponent over the eye with a knife. For this he was arrested, and the Magistrate held him for trial.

Jefferson Market—Ledwith, Justice.

A SECOND EDITION.

Thomas Kidd was committed on the 1st inst. on a charge of burglary upon the premises of Isaac Kinsler, No. 258 West Twenty-seventh-street, and yesterday one Joseph White was arraigned for complicity in the same offence, and was committed without bail for trial at the General Sessions.

A STOLEN WATCH.

Some days since a gold watch and chain valued at $100 were stolen from James Tyler, No. 56 West Thirty-third-street, and were traced to the possession of Robt. Reilly, who, being arrested, confessed that he had sold the watch and spent the money. He was committed as a receiver of stolen goods.

Essex Market—Mansfield, Justice.

SINGULAR CHARGE OF BURGLARY.

Lewis Stemper was arraigned on a charge of burglary by means of false keys on the premises of Charles Haman, No. 40 Division-street, and the proof adduced was, that he had been seen in the store between 12 and 1 o'clock. The accused stated that the premises had lately belonged to him; that he still had some stock in the store, and that still having the genuine keys of the place, he had gone through the store on his way to his sleeping-room in the same building. He was committed for examination.

POLICE TRIALS.

Before Commissioner Manierre.

Twenty-nine patrolmen were on trial yesterday, charged with neglect of duty and improper conduct. The session was very long, and some of the cases developed peculiar characteristics.

HENNESSY'S CASE.

The case of Patrolman John Hennessy, of the Forty-third Precinct, charged with unnecessary violence toward James Haggerty while taking him to the Station-house, was continued. The testimony related mainly to what occurred in the Station-house subsequent to the arrest. There appear to be three theories in regard to the injuries received by Haggerty: First, that he struck the back of his head, when thrust out of the saloon at the corner of Smith and Union streets; second, one witness (Gilbert) swears to seeing the officer strike the prisoner three times on the head about the time the arrest was made; (this is not corroborated by other witnesses;) third, that the prisoner fell after being placed in the cell. Sergeant Ferry thought he could not have failed to see a wound on the back of the prisoner's head when brought before him had there been one, as the prisoner was bareheaded at the time, and especially had there been blood he would have seen it, as the prisoner's hair was quite white. Haggerty was brought into the Station-house about 7 o'clock in the evening, charged by Hennessy with intoxication. About 1 o'clock A. M. Sergeant Meeks looked into the cell and saw the prisoner sitting fast asleep and snoring like a drunken man. A little after 4 o'clock the doorman reported him dead. The Sergeant then found him sitting in the same position, with the exception that his head was inclined forward on his breast, as at 1 o'clock. There was a small spot of blood on the cell floor. The prisoner at no time complained of injuries. The case was again adjourned for one week.

PATENT MEDICINES DANGEROUS.

Patrolman John Patterson, of the Tenth Precinct, charged by Sergeant Wemyss with coming in from post duty in a state of intoxication, produced a bottle of patent medicine as the thing that did the business. He denied having drank any liquor that day. The case was referred to the Board.

A LITTLE ON THE PIGEON-WING.

Sergeant Fitzgerald, of the Twentieth Precinct, testified that at about 6 o'clock last Saturday evening, looking into the liquor store corner of Thirty-fifth-street and Eleventh-avenue, he saw Patrolman Francis McDonald alone in the middle of the floor dancing—"a little on the pigeon-wing." McDonald was a good dancer, but the Sergeant did not admire the time and place of exhibition. Defendant said he was called in, and denied that he was dancing. Case referred to the Board for judgment.

CHARGED WITH BEATING A WOMAN.

Mrs. Ann Quinn, a woman of respectable appearance, residing at No. 23 Forsyth-street, complained of Patrolman Richard D. McIntire, of the Fourth Precinct, for beating her, and giving her a black eye, on her own premises last Friday afternoon. She testified that the officer was in the habit of "going back and forth" to visit a girl of bad repute, who lived in another apartment, but on the same floor as witness. By their noise and bad conduct they destroyed witness' rest at night, and they also called her bad names. When the officer came out she threw a pan of water upon him. She then rushed into her room and fastened the door. The officer broke the lock off, threw her down and beat her. Two other women corroborated substantially this statement. Mary Leonard testified that the officer visited her on the afternoon in question, and claimed the honor of punishing Mrs. Quinn for throwing water on the light clothes of "this young man," meaning the officer aforesaid. Henry Beigs, patrolman of the Second Precinct, was "keeping an appointment" at the same house at the time, but his testimony elicited nothing of importance. McIntire was locked up all night on Mrs. Quinn's charge, but was discharged by the Magistrate in the morning. He was not in uniform. Case referred to the Board.

"LIQUOR IS LIQUOR AND WINE IS WINE."

Henry Beigs, patrolman of the Second Precinct, was found by Roundsman Melley, at 1:15 A. M., at the corner of Gold and Fulton streets, apparently drinking a bottle of claret wine. The charge was "drinking intoxicating liquor," and the Teutonic officer seemed to think his position impregnable when he triumphantly rejoined, "liquor is liquor and wine is wine!" He said he found the bottle in the doorway of Wilson's cracker bakery, and was only smelling of it, and alleged that the roundsman did far worse in tasting it. Roundsman Melley thought that to hold an elevated bottle to one's mouth and at the same time to have the head well thrown back was a new style of smelling. Besides, the officer at the time stated that he supposed he might as well tell the truth—that it was claret, but the roundsman, he said, could see there was not much drank out of it. This case was also referred to the Board.

From the tenor of the trials it would not be strange if several vacancies should occur in the Department before long.

FRIDAY, May 7—P. M.

The very sharp and unlooked-for turn in the London market of yesterday, and its further effect this morning upon the English as well as the American Funds and Railways, caused an advance of 1@1½@2 ℘ cent. in our Gold market and a decline of 1@1¼ ℘ cent. in the United States Funds, the latter showing the greatest weakness on U. S. 5-20s of 1865–67, July and January Interest, because of the appearance of one or two heavy operators for the Bear account. The price fell from 116⅞ to 115⅝, then recovered to 116@116⅛, and again fell back to 115¾@⅝ ℘ cent. The private telegrams from London to-day notice a quick demand for Money and the marked depression of all Stocks, but make no satisfactory reference to the cause of the trouble. The Gold speculators here made the best possible use of the news, but in other departments of the Exchange there were no signs of panic excitement; the decline in U. S. 5-20s and other descriptions of the funds caused no alarm and no anxiety on the part of holders to press sales; the demand for Money was barely equal to the offerings early in the day at 7 ℘ cent., and at or near the close of Bank hours the balances tendered to the Brokers was largely in excess of their wants, and the Railway movement was the strongest which we have had to report at any time during the week. New-York Central touched 180 ℘ cent.; Fort Wayne, 150⅝ ℘ cent.; Michigan Southern, 106⅜ ℘ cent., and the Northwests and Reading firm. Hudson and Harlem were higher, in sympathy with New-York Central and the probable passage of all the Vanderbilt Railway bills at Albany this afternoon or to-night. The business of the day was quite large in the New-York Stocks, and in many of the Westerns. The Border State Bonds were generally firm. The Miscellaneous Shares were well supported, but free from speculative excitement.

The sales of Gold ran up to 136¾@137½@136¾@137⅝ to the close of Bank hours, and subsequently to 138¼@⅜ ℘ cent. The Treasury Office received $380,000 for Customs, and paid out $470,000 for Gold Interest. The sales of Bills on London were at 109@⅛, 60 days, and 109⅞@110⅛ ℘ cent. sight and short sight, and Cable transfers were made as high as 111 ℘ cent. The chances, this afternoon, seem to be that Specie shipments to Europe will be actively resumed next week in the shape of American Gold Coin, as the latest Cable telegrams quote lower figures for 5-20s and a general depression in the London market.

SAFES TO LET BY THE NATIONAL PARK BANK IN A BURGLAR AND FIRE-PROOF VAULT.—For the safe-keeping and protection from fire and burglars of Securities of all kinds, including Stocks, Bonds, Mortgages, Wills and Diamonds, and valuable Jewelry of every description. An inspection of the vault, constructed by this Bank in their new building, will at once convince all parties interested that the most perfect attainable security has been reached, and at an extremely moderate annual cost to each tenant.

The officers will take pleasure in showing the vault on application.

$1,000,000 GOLD.—SIX PER CENT. FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS OF THE ST. LOUIS AND ST. JOSEPH RAILROAD OF MISSOURI.—Principal and interest payable in gold. Coupons payable May 1 and Nov. 1 at the FARMERS' LOAN AND TRUST COMPANY, NEW-YORK.

Total issue of Bonds $1,000,000, less than $14,000 per mile on 72¼ miles of road from the City of St. Joseph to Lexington, which is not over one-half the amount per mile of mortgages on the principal railways of the country, making the bonds the cheapest and one of the safest investments in the market.

The Council Bluffs and St. Joseph and North Missouri Roads, now completed, are connected by this road, forming a grand trunk through line from St. Louis to Omaha, 24 miles nearer New-York than via Chicago.

The loan is being rapidly taken, half of which has already been sold.

Present price 87½ and accrued interest in currency, which must soon approximate par.

The interest is the same as the United States 5-20s, and payable the same [illegible] of the 62s, 64s, and 65s; at present prices they are 25 to 30 per cent. cheaper than Governments, and we believe them to be equally as secure.

The counties along the line are the most populous and richest agricultural districts in the State. The local traffic will be very profitable, and the through travel and freight must be as large as that of any Western road.

There are numerous excellent coal fields on the line, which will be a never-failing source of revenue to the road.

With great satisfaction we recommend this security to investors and trustees of estates as a first-class investment.

Refined Petroleum by the ship Palmerston, for Bremen, 600 bbls. and 3,000 cases do., by the brig Typhoon, for Cadiz. The Titusville Herald of the 6th inst., in its monthly review of the Petroleum trade, says "The production increased steadily during April, and the daily average, as shown by the increase in stock and the shipment from the district, was 11,067 bbls. of 43 gallons—an enlargement of 1,276 barrels over the daily average of March. This increase was caused more by the continuous working of the wells and the use of torpedoes than by the finding of new wells. The daily product during April, last year, was about 8,700 bbls., and the average per day, from Jan. 1 to May 1, was about 9,100 bbls. When the advance in price and the largely-increased developmetns which have existed since are taken into consideration, the increase in the product this year is seen to be comparatively small. The following table shows the production during April, the average per day, the production previously reported in 1869, and the average per day since Jan. 1; the product from Jan. 1 to May 1, last year, and the average per day for the same time:

Total shipment of Crude for April of bbls., of 45 gallons each, bbls	282,280
Add to reduce to bbls. of 43 gallons each, bbls	13,129
Total shipment of bbls. of 43 gallons each, bbls	295,409

The stock of Petroleum increased during the month, and on the 1st of May the total in all hands was 365,970 barrels of forty-three gallons. This stock included the amounts in iron tankage and at the wells, and that on the hands of pipe companies and dealers in wooden storage tanks. This last included 1,000 barrels at Petroleum Centre, 1,000 on the Rynd farm, 1,600 at Pithole, 1,000 at Titusville, and 2,500 on Upper Cherry run. The amount at the wells was about 3,500 barrels smaller than on the 1st of April. This decrease was occasioned by many of the producers moving their stocks from the wells into iron tankage. As compared with the stock on April 1, the stock on May 1 shows an increase of about 37,000 barrels. The stock on the latter date was about 56,000 barrels less than on the same day last year.

The London Times and Telegraph of yesterday again had editorials on the Alabama claims question. The Times asserts that extraordinary misrepresentations were necessary to furnish the basis for such a policy as Mr. SUMNER'S speech forshadows, and assuring Americans that it will prove a failure; and the Telegraph says that England will not listen to novel pretensions, but will give ear only to reasonable propositions; and if no solution of the question is now practicable, she will leave them "to the influence of time and the mature judgment of the American people" for adjustment.

The Internal Revenue Law—Can Government Officers be Informers?—Judge Blatchford's Decision.

In a recent issue we published an opinion of Judge BBATCHFORD, in a case arising under the Internal Revenue laws, which, if accepted as a correct exposition of the law on the subject to which it refers, cannot fail to have a most important bearing upon the collection of the revenue.

The controversy arose between two Revenue Inspectors—MICHENER and PAYNE—each claiming to be entitled to the informer's share of the proceeds resulting from a forfeiture and sale of a tobacco factory in this City. It was referred to a Commissioner to ascertain and report which of them was in fact the informer, and entitled to the share given to the person who shall first inform in such cases.

The report of the Commissioner was in favor of MICHENER, but PAYNE filed exceptions to the report, and thus brought the question directly before Judge BLATCHFORD for decision. The Judge, after argument, sustained the ruling of the Commissioner, that PAYNE was not entitled to be considered as the informer in the case; but also held that MICHENER, although in fact the first informer as against PAYNE and all other persons, was not entitled as informer to any share in the moneys to be distributed in the case, because, says the Judge,

> "During the whole period covered by the acts of MICHENER on which he relies as constituting him an informer, he was a Revenue Inspector at Philadelphia, appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury under the fifth section of the act of June 30, 1864. And that it was a part of his official duty to make the investigation and do the acts on which he relies."

In such a case the Judge holds that no officer can claim as an informer. His reasoning is that the object of his appointment is to aid in the "proper enforcement of the Internal Revenue laws" and the "detection of frauds."

> "In discharging duties of this character the whole time of MICHENER," continues the Judge, "belonged to the United States for the per diem compensation of $4 per day. All information acquired by MICHENER in the discharge of his duties become ipso facto the property of the United States." Such information never became as against the United States the private property of MICHENER, so as to allow to him any discretion as to communicating to or withholding it from his superior officer. "This," says the Judge, "is the test."

With due deference to the opinion of Judge BLATCHFORD we must be permitted to say that in our judgment such is not and never has been the test. No warrant for any such test can, we are sure, be found in any Act of Congress relating to revenue, nor in any of the authorities cited by the Judge in support of his opinion. On the contrary, the legislation of Congress, the decisions of the Courts and the practices of the Treasury Department, under this and similar statutes, are all directly against it. The Judge says that,

> "Undoubtedly Congress may, if they choose, award to an officer, under such circumstances, a share, as informer, in the proceeds of forfeitures; and, if the language of the 179th section of the act of 1864 were such as to require or admit in its proper construction the including of MICHENER in its description of informers, I should so hold."

If the Judge had not done what Judges are so prone to do, disposed of the case on a point not raised by either party on the argument, but had, when the doubt suggested itself to his mind, ordered a reargument of the case, with notice to the District-Attorney, we think he would, after argument, have come to the conclusion that Congress had chosen to accord to an officer under such circumstances a share as informer in the proceeds of forfeitures, and that the act of 1864 properly admitted of such a construction.

That such is the only true and proper construction of the act is placed beyond all question by the history of legislation on this and kindred subjects, by judicial expositions of a similar statute in the Customs laws, and by the uniform course of proceeding in the Treasury Department.

Had Judge BLATCHFORD given an opportunity for an argument, he would have learned, doubtless, that section 179, of the act of 1864, is original section 31 of the first Internal Revenue law, approved July 1, 1862. The part of the section relating to informers, as originally passed, reads as follows:

> * * * "And when not otherwise and differently provided for, one moiety thereof shall be to the use of the United States, and the other to the use of the person who, if a Collector or Deputy Collector, shall first inform of the cause, matter or thing whereby any such fine, penalty or forfeiture was incurred."

By the fifty-ninth section of the same act, it was also provided that any person, who should carry on a trade or business without a license, shall pay a penalty as therein prescribed:

> "One moiety to the use of the United States; the other moiety to the use of the person who, if he be a Collector, shall first discover, and if other than a Collector, shall first give information of the fact whereby said forfeiture was incurred."

It will be seen, therefore, that under the first Internal Revenue law no person but an officer, and no officer even, except a Collector or Deputy Collector, could claim as informer in any fines, penalties or forfeitures incurred for violations of the thirty-first section; and for violations of section 59 the Collector who should first discover, or any person not a Collector who should first inform, was permitted to claim as informer.

Section 59 was amended by section 73 of the act of 1864 by dropping the expression "who, if a Collector, shall first discover, and if other than a Collector, shall first give information," and substituting therefor the words, "the person who shall first inform of the matter," &c.

In 1865 section 179 of the act of 1864 was amended, and the rule which for three years had limited the right to claim as informer to Collectors or Deputy Collectors was changed.

The original section read as follows: "One moiety to the use of the person who, if he be a Collector or Deputy Collector, shall first inform," &c. The amendment consisted in leaving out the words, "if he be a Collector or Deputy Collector." So as amended the section read, "One moiety to the use of the person who shall first inform," &c. It is apprehended that no argument is necessary to make plain the obvious purpose and effect of this amendment. The mere statement of it is sufficient. Instead of proving that Congress intended to prevent officers from claiming as informers, for information derived by them in the discharge of their official duties, it shows that in the beginning they did not allow any but officers to be informers at all; finally this limitation was stricken out, permitting persons who were not officers as well as those who were to become informers.

A precisely similar question to the one decided by Judge BLATCHFORD arose under the act for the collection of customs, and was decided in the District Court for the District of Maine as early as 1848.

An Inspector of the Customs claimed his distributive share as informer in the proceeds of fifty-one casks of brandy seized by the Collector and forfeited upon information given by the Inspector. His claim was resisted on the ground that he was appointed to enforce the law and to detect frauds; that the information was obtained in the course of the discharge of his official duties, for which he received a regular per diem compensation, and that he was bound to disclose the information thus obtained. For these and other reasons it was urged he was not entitled to extra compensation. The Court, after full argument, held that he was entitled to share as informer. They said the object of the statute was to grant to this class of officers additional compensation for the purpose of quickening their activity and stimulating their energies in the discharge of a duty carrying with it more or less odium, and not unfrequently attended with danger. This decision was adopted both by the Courts and the Government as a correct exposition of the law, and for more than twenty years these officers have been admitted as informers.

The office of Revenue Inspector in the Internal Revenue service was first created by the fifth section of the act of 1864. Their per diem compensation is left to the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury, not exceeding, however, four dollars per day. It was expected and understood that the greater part of the compensation of active and energetic officers would be received in the shape of moieties, as informers. Many Inspectors have been appointed without other compensation than the amounts they could receive as informers. And when it was found that the 179th section of the same act prevented them from claiming as informers in all cases of forfeiture arising under that section, but compelled them to use the name of the Collector, accept such share as he might choose to award them, the words "if he be a Collector or Deputy Collector," were stricken out by the amendments in 1865, thus permitting any person who should first inform to claim his share in his own name. The very object of this amendment was to enable the Inspectors who really procured the information and caused the forfeiture, to claim as informers without being compelled, in cases arising under section 179, to use the name of a Collector or Deputy Collector, and share the proceeds with them. From the day of their first appointment it has been the uniform practice of the Treasury Department and of the Courts to permit them to claim as informers. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been distributed to them, and we venture to say that more than $100,000 has been distributed to this class of officers by Judge BLATCHFORD himself. This practice has been open and notorious, and well understood by Congress and the whole country.

The Internal Revenue law has been amended every year since 1864, and sometimes twice in the same year. Is it possible to suppose that if Congress had found the Treasury Department and the Courts violating its intention in this respect, it would not have corrected it by an amendment of the law? We trust, for the sake of the efficiency of the service, this case may, in some manner, be reconsidered, and a conclusion arrived at more in harmony with the legislation of Congress and less calculated to paralize the arm of the Government in its efforts to detect and punish those who conspire to defraud it.

Congressmen on Their Travels.

Time was when the close of a session of Congress brought relief to its committees. Or if perchance a committee found the continuance of an investigation necessary, members remained at Washington to conduct it. That old-fashioned mode of transacting business no longer suits the House committees. They propose to turn the recess to pleasurable account, and to prove their zeal in the public service by traveling hither and thither with all the pomp and circumstance of Congressional authority, at the public expense. There seems indeed to have been a rather undignified game of grab among the Chairmen concerned to secure the wherewithal for their enjoyment. The contingent fund is not unlimited, and the maxim, "first come first served," has been applied to such purpose that little is left for inevitable expenditures. The choicest plum has fallen into the lap of Mr. SCHENCK. As head of the Ways and Means Committee, he has secured ten thousand dollars to defray the cost of a tour down and across the Continent. An inspection of Custom-houses at work is the professed object of the trip, which will begin at New-York and end at San Francisco. With free railroad passes, and dining and wining all the way, ten thousand should bring back the investigators handsomely. Three thousand form the measure of General BANKS' enjoyment, which is to be sought in Cuba or Heaven knows where; and a like sum has been made available by Mr. BINGHAM for a jaunt to Alabama in relation to Judge BUSTEED. New-Orleans being more expensive than Montgomery, it is not surprising that General PAINE and his associates, who are desirous of working up the Louisiana election cases, could not consent to start with less than a snug five thousand, which should provide a sufficiency of juleps for the hottest weather. General GARFIELD and his Census Committee, and Mr. LYNCH and his Shipping Committee, are provided for with three thousand and two thousand, respectively. Even the Committee on Retrenchment cannot forego its chance of recreation, for which a modest two thousand are all that is available.

Fortune dispenses favors invidiously. A grateful and patriotic nation may not begrudge Summer enjoyments to its lawmakers, but at least it may ask that they shall be impartially dispensed. As the matter stands, the holiday journeyings, with Uncle Sam as the treasurer, are confined to a handful of the members, and they all of one party. If Mr. BANKS, for example, is entitled to an ocean trip and its delightful et cetera, the cost thereof being drawn from the House contingencies, why should not Mr. FERNANDO WOOD draw upon the same source for his European excursion? And so all round the House. If mileage and sessional allowances are not to be the limit of the country's provision for its legislators, and if trips by land and sea are to be added as a means of enlarging the minds and invigorating the bodies of those who weary of Washington and home, we insist that all the members shall profit by the arrangement. There is quite enough of monopoly without extending it to pleasurable pilgrimages.

As to the plea that these wanderings are undertaken in the public service, with a view to the acquisition of knowledge or the performance of work, we attach no credence to it. If the Ways and Means Committee wants to learn something touching the operation of the tariff or the machinery of the Customs' department, it should call to its aid experts and practical, experienced men, who really have some ideas on the subject. The Special Commissioner of Revenue, we venture to say, already knows more in regard to it than will the members of the Committee after their return from San Francisco; and if, on some specific point, more light is needed, he, or some one like him, is the best man to supply it. The perambulating process is more likely to confuse than to enlighten; it may yield big Blue Books, but of accurate, trustworthy and exhaustive information it will almost necessarily be barren. And as with the Ways and Means Committee, so with the Census and Shipping Committees. Their investigations, conducted on the wing, will be farces or something worse.

The whole business is derogatory to the dignity of Congress, and a burlesque upon practical methods of inquiry and work.

Cheap Cabs.

Both branches of the Legislature have, at last, in spite of all opposition from stage, horse-car, hack, and whatever other interests, passed the act incorporating the "Hansom Cab Company;" and thus "cheap cabs," which have long been the dream of New-York citizens, but whose advent had hardly been expected before the Golden Age, are now almost, so to speak, "at our doors."

The main credit, we understand, of this new and grateful move in cheap City transportation, is due to Mr. E. W. BRANDON, who prepared and engineered the bill, and appears as one of the corporators. Its provisions would seem to indicate that the Cab Company will begin by doing the "han'some" thing, as they should, by their patrons. Their cabs are to be stationed at such places upon the streets of New-York and Brooklyn, for the convenient access of passengers, as the Mayors of these cities may assign—and are to be kept on hand there at all hours of the day and night. The Company may begin business as soon as $100,000 of capital is subscribed. As to the legal fares—the main thing—we may state them as follows: There is a scale of fares for distance and a scale for time. For a mile or less, thirty cents for one passenger, forty cents for two; and precisely the same rate additional for each additional mile or part of a mile. For any time within an hour, seventy-five cents for one passenger, $1 for two; and precisely the same rate additional for each additional hour or part of an hour. However, when the cabs are employed at any time between 12 o'clock at night and 6 o'clock in the morning, an addition of one-half more to the fares may be demanded—as, for example, forty-five cents for one passenger, and sixty for two, for a mile or less. It is further provided that the drivers shall not leave their cabs, when stationed at or near railway or steamboat stations, (to bellow at travelers for their custom,) and shall not leave their stands until engaged by a passenger.

Upon the whole, there seems to be a probability that the era of cheap cabs is at hand. We shall not be over-confident, so many times have these schemes slipped up; but it is to be hoped that the Governor will sign the bill, and the Company commence operations. If properly managed the system cannot fail to be a success, both in conferring a benefit on the City and in proving profitable to the proprietors.

The Fisheries.

The Canadian Government may complicate matters considerably by an excess of vigor on the fisheries question. In the Dominion Parliament on Tuesday, the question of licensing United States fishermen was made an occasion for reiterating the extreme pretensions invented by Nova Scotia officials and which Britain has indorsed. It was insisted that the colonial rights are measurable by a line drawn from headland to headland, and that the Provincial authorities should take steps to maintain their claims in this respect. One member favored the total exclusion of American fishermen, and though he does not appear to have had many supporters, the prevailing feeling evidently is, that more stringent regulations should be enforced, and that the fee exacted from Americans should be increased. We cannot suppose the Canadian authorities to be unmindful of the delicacy of their position on this subject, or of the danger which must attend anything like prohibition or even a vexatious enforcement of a pretension in which this country has never acquiesced. The "headland to headland" doctrine is too extravagant to be tolerated, and its rigid maintenance would be a grave mistake. In existing circumstances especially, a moderate license system will be best for all parties.

Rents Reasonable.

It is the "day after the fair," and, accordingly, we are not surprised to hear that houses are plenty and "rents reasonable." They began to droop visibly at the approach of the fatal first of May; when the large number of houses "for sale," but unsold, were pressed into the market for renting for one year, they dropped still lower; and when the "harvest was past," houses to rent became almost a drug. The question we may put now, to better advantage than before the first of May, is, would not the owners of these unrented houses be glad of another shoal of tenants applying for them on the 1st of August, or even on the 1st of November? In other words, would they not be satisfied if the year's rentals habitually began at any quarter of the year, instead of always at the 1st of May?

True it is that the rush and crush, the anxiety and trepidation of the tenants, make them give larger rents for the 1st of May, fearing they shall be left without house and home. But it reduces also the number of tenants; it puts them to all sorts of shifts to avoid letting—moving out of the City, hiring suites of rooms instead of whole houses, and what not. More than that, it decreases the chances of the landlord's getting his rent in full without trouble. And, in fine, the result is that a great many tenants are left with the wrong sort of houses to occupy, and a great many landlords with no tenants at all. We are glad to note that "rents are more reasonable;" but the trouble is that the would-be tenants at these reasonable rents must take up the lament of the poet, "Too late! too late! we cannot enter now."

Reconstruction and Disfranchisement.

The announcement of the World, that reconstruction is to be reconstructed, would carry more weight if it were not predicated upon a perversion of fact.

> "The passage by Congress of the bill authorizing the President to submit the new Constitutions to the popular vote in parts, is a sneaking retreat by that body from its policy of disfranchising the leading citizens of the South. It is a compulsory retreat; for the Republican Party could not stand under the odium of keeping half the population of the South unrepresented for an indefinite period, and the same majority in the unrepresented States that voted down reconstruction last year would suffice to block it perpetually. Congress has, therefore, virtually decided that it will no longer insist on disfranchisement as an essential part of the reconstruction policy."

Disfranchisement never has formed a permanent feature of the reconstruction policy. Congress attached certain conditions to voting in the preliminary stages of reconstruction, but it left the people of the States free to determine for themselves the basis of suffrage under the new Governments. Not only is disfranchisement not enjoined by the Reconstruction acts, but it has formed no element in the considerations that have determined the admission of the restored States. Neither North nor South Carolina nor Georgia has a particle of proscription in its new Constitution; in none of these States is a man disfranchised save for cause; and yet the Constitution of each, having been ratified by the people, was without hesitation approved by Congress. That body never has insisted on disfranchisement "as an essential part of the reconstruction policy;" and the World, therefore, is not justified in imputing to it any change on the subject.

The new feature, introduced by the measure of the late session, relates to the separate submission of particular provisions of the Constitutions to be voted upon by Virginia, Mississippi and Texas. This concession, made at the instance of General GRANT, removes serious obstacles from the path of the States yet unreconstructed, but it in no manner indicates a modification or abandonment of any one of the original requirements of the Reconstruction acts. So far as the suffrage is concerned, these are intended to prevent disfranchisement or invidious denials of right or privilege on account of race or color. Disfranchisement on other grounds is a matter of which the people alone have control; and if they decide against it in Virginia—as we hope and believe they will—the circumstance will imply no departure by Congress from the course it has hitherto pursued.

The vulnerable point in the position of Congress is its retention of disabilities as applied to office. The World overlooks this, and imputes to Congress a policy of disfranchisement which has not, and never had, an existence.

MINOR TOPICS.

The Wall-street dealings in Gold, Funds, and Stocks, yesterday, were on an unusually extensive scale. Gold was quoted up full three per cent., as high as 139⅝@139¾ having been marked late in the afternoon, though the closing figures were 138⅝@138¾. United States Securities were depressed 1½@2 per cent. under heavier offerings, partly on speculative account. London advices of a very active call there for money, and of a severe decline in United States Securities, aided the Gold speculation, and operated against the Public Funds in this market. The Washington dispatch in the morning papers of yesterday, to the effect that Secretary BOUTWELL had determined to postpone the enforcement of the sinking fund provisions, until after the close of the current fiscal year, was also made use of to damage the credit of the Government in the open market. It was argued that this postponement would prove very injurious to the public credit, and would depress values materially. Railway and miscellaneous share property opened decidedly strong and buoyant, but closed lower and quite irregular.

You can start from New-York City this morning, and be in San Francisco next Saturday night. In other words, you can now cross the American continent by rail in eight days. A man was in this place yesterday who was in San Francisco on Thursday of last week. During his journey he has slept every night, and eaten three "square" meals every day. The Pacific Railroad is complete. What next? All hail hereafter!

The Tribune has a comfortable way of dealing with the new Board of Education. "If the new Board," says the Tribune, "prove no better than the old one, we can dispose of it as we did of that. If it prove as prodigal and inert as its predecessor, it will speedily share its fate. If it give us cheaper and better education, it will stand; if not, next Winter will see it superseded." This may all be true; but was it worth while to overthrow the old organization before there was some assurance that the new organization would be an improvement? We ought to have some attempt at permanence in such matters, and not upset them every year for the purpose of trying new experiments.

A curious incident in regard to Senator SPRAGUE'S political position has been discovered by the Providence Journal. It appears that in the last edition of the "Congressional Directory," which publishes a sketch of the political history of each member, furnished by himself, it is recorded that "WILLIAM SPRAGUE, of Providence, born 1830, was elected to the United States Senate as a Republican;" but in the next edition of the same Directory, it is recorded that "WILLIAM SPRAGUE, of Providence, born 1830, was elected to the United States Senate as a Democrat." Now Senator SPRAGUE should not tamper with history in this way. He should not make opposite statements about a circumstance that must be considered of profound interest, and will doubtless constantly grow in importance. We believe that members of both parties in the Rhode Island Legislature voted for Mr. SPRAGUE; but what we want to know is, whether the Democratic members voted for him as a Republican Senator, and the Republican members voted for him as a Democratic Senator? Were they generous enough to do this, or did the members of each party vote for him on the belief that he belonged to their own party?

By the letters we have received during the last few days, it appears that a great number of inventive minds have had their attention directed to the discovering of improved means for driving the sewing-machine, some having been laboring to find cheap and convenient motors and engines, while others have been looking for a pedal movement, different from that now in use—one which shall be less injurious to the limbs and frames of the female workers. We know nothing whatever about any of these inventions. We do not propose to investigate the subject. But we have no doubt that more than one of the rival sewing-machine companies will be found quite willing to adopt any improvement which will obviate any existing imperfection, or relieve the workers from any evil which may arise by the use of the present pedal.

We find the following among the letters published by Senator SPRAGUE in the Congressional Globe as an appendix to his speech. It is evidently from some one who writes for a newspaper, as he speaks in it of "one of our other editors;" but what paper enjoys the benefit of his contributions, we can only infer from the note itself:

> MARCH 26.
> DEAR GOVERNOR: I support your ideas in a leader of this morning, which I inclose. One of our other editors makes comment also on Mr. SPRAGUE by some curious freak of Presidential unearthing. Never be astonished at any of the vagaries of the Herald. You must take it, good, bad and indifferent, believing that it all helps to create glory. I wrote you from Providence on Sunday last. Yours, CHURCH.

There are some very sensible opinions expressed in this short letter: the paragraph which warns the Senator never to be "astonished at any of the vagaries of the Herald," but to "believe that it all helps to create glory," is wise enough and modest enough to inspire the belief that it is taken from the Herald itself. But who is "CHURCH?"

The growing use of iron for architectural purposes instead of stone, is inciting some discussion in the scientific papers. Some of them seem to find it worth while to utter formal warnings against the employment of this material, which, with the action of the atmosphere and its moisture, is sure to waste and decay. There is much truth in this. Iron demands, from those who seek to use its easy adaptability and cheapness to replace wrought stone, a constant care. Paint, sedulously and freely applied, will preserve its surface from rust; but the danger is, that when the structures are once built they are not generally watched with that close attention absolutely necessary to its preservation. Stone is expensive, but trustworthy and permanent. Iron is cheap, easily wrought and effective—but needs an unwearied attention to keep it so. It becomes thus a mere matter of choice. Spend your money and take your trouble once for all, or spread it out over a long time; one or the other.

A movement is on foot among the actual members of the Episcopal Church to increase and improve the supply of literature for the use of that denomination. The Church Journal has an article strongly insisting on its necessity, and giving valuable hints as to the best manner of accomplishing the desired result.

There is a report circulated in Paris that the Empress, having for a good while meant to visit Jerusalem, intends to do so this year, and, on the same pilgrimage, be present at the opening of the Suez Canal in its entire length. This is probable enough, though it is uncertain whether the fifteen miles of sand lying between the Bitter Lakes and the Red Sea can be dug this year, according to LESSEPS' programme. The occasion would be one well worth the presence of the Empress, or even of the Emperor himself, who, in this, would preside over a sensation more memorable than that of the Napoleonic anniversary.

It is a little singular that while we in New-York have been grumbling (we must always grumble at the weather—it's "the correct thing") at our remarkably open, warm and rainy Winter, the interior of the country has had an unusual amount of snow. Canada, in deed, records it as an extraordinary Winter for snow, though the cold has not been very severe. The average Canadian snow-fall for twenty years has been 79.50 inches; in 1861, a very snowy year, it was 96.58 inches, while between October and March of this past Winter there fell 165.86 inches. The facts of meteorology accumulate like snow-drifts, and seem just about as easy to systematize. We know what happens: but who knows why?

The very rich and powerful corporation known as the Third-avenue Railroad Company, requires its half-paid conductors to furnish their own change; and when one of them is unable or unwilling to "break" a five or ten-dollar note, the Company justifies him in expelling the passenger who is unfortunate enough to be without smaller stamps. This regulation of his employers fully warranted Conductor No. 8, of Car No. 8, in refusing to change a note offered by a respectable gentleman yesterday, and, in default of the tender of pennies, in expelling him from the car; but nothing can justify him in the brutality displayed.

WASHINGTON.

The California Mint and Sub-Treasury Appointments—Appointments of Colored Men—The Indian Bureau—Woman Suffrage in Washington—The Navy-yard Men and the Eight-hour Law.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Friday, May 7.

The California Mint and Sub-Treasury appointments remain in statu quo. The commissions of J. P. COCHRAN as melter and refiner, Dr. MUNSON as assayer, and Mr. HARMSTEAD as coiner, are still withheld, though there is no reason to believe that they will not be ultimately issued. The Superintendency of the Mint, the office now held by Mr. SWAIN, was not changed. Nothing further has been done with the nomination for Assistant Treasurer, but there is good reason to believe that the President sees no reason to change his determination to reinstate Mr. CHEESEMAN. Considerable surprise is expressed in the Treasury Department at the statement in the protests coming from San Francisco to the effect that a change in the Sub-Treasury and in the Mint will seriously disturb the business interest of the Pacific coast. Prominent officers of the Department do not hesitate to say that if the business of the Mint and Sub-Treasury be properly conducted, it will be impossible to disturb the business of the community. Certainly, if the money of the United States is in the Sub-Treasury, where it ought to be, it will not disturb the business of the Bank of California or the San Francisco refinery to reinstate Mr. CHEESEMAN. It is the violent opposition of such strong moneyed interests as these to any change that begets a desire, if not a necessity, for change. The opposition to the issue of the commissions of the Mint officers is entirely subordinate to the opposition to the reinstatement of Mr. CHEESEMAN, who was removed in October last by Mr. JOHNSON under the influence of the Bank of California, in the face of a record of seven years' service, such as few men can show. It was the same influence, represented by its attorney on the floor of the Senate, which, by a single objection to the confirmation of Mr. CHEESEMAN, threw his name to the foot of the calendar, where it was impossible to reach it before the Senate adjourned. Unless some stronger reasons are presented than have yet been shown it is probable that the original programme as to the Mint and Sub-Treasury will be carried out.

THE APPOINTMENT OF COLORED MEN.

The refusal of the President to appoint a colored man Postmaster at Savannah, Ga., which is represented as a flagrant disregard of the wishes of those who desire to rebuke the contumacious people of that State who deny the right of negroes to hold office, loses all its force when it is remembered that the President has already appointed two colored men to office in that State, and that he has already, in this respect, abundantly testified his belief in their right to hold civil offices of all kinds, from foreign Missions down to Postmasters. A few super-radical people are growling about this refusal, but no one else.

THE INDIAN BUREAU.

The usual meeting of the Cabinet, which took place to-day, lasted nearly two hours, and was attended by all the Secretaries. The question of assigning army officers now waiting orders to duty as Indian agents and superintendents, which the President a few days ago decided to do on the recommendation of the Secretary of War, was considered, and a list of over fifty officers was agreed on. The list was not entirely completed to-day, and some changes may be made before the orders are issued. The officers who may be selected will report to the Secretary of the Interior for duty, and, as stated in these dispatches last evening, will receive their military pay and will be subject to military discipline and punishment as if on military duty. The Cuban question was not discussed at the meeting to-day.

THE WOMAN QUESTION.

Two more female applicants for citizenship presented themselves at the registration booths in this city to-day, under the guardianship of Professor WILCOX. Their names were received by the Chairman, who stated that their applications would be decided on or before the close of the registration. They were Mrs. MARY T. CORNER and Miss CLARA BARTON. Twenty-two women have thus far applied to be registered in this city, and the advocates of female suffrage are endeavoring to drum up other candidates.

THE NAVY-YARD MEN.

The workmen at the Navy-yard propose to hold a meeting to-morrow to take action toward forming a Workingmen's Navy-yard Union League which will be a branch of similar organizations now being organized by the workmen in all the Navy-yards of the country. The object proposed is to contend for the Eight-hour law as passed by Congress. Some weeks ago a question was addressed to the Navy Department as to whether the recent decision of the Secretary of the Navy affected the pay of the master workmen of the yard, and whether or not the twenty per cent was to be deducted from their daily stipend. No answer has as yet been received, and the master workmen of the yard have not received their salaries for last month, as the Paymaster is undecided as to whether they come under the terms of the order of the Secretary.

THE PENNSYLVANIA MARSHALSHIP.

The Marshalship of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania was given to M. M. Gregory to-day, on the recommendation of Mr. George H. Stuart, of Philadelphia, much to the disgust of some of the leading politicians of the State, who came here to press the claims of half a dozen other applicants. Mr. Gregory was for some time an agent of the Freedmen's Bureau.

PERSONAL.

Secretary Borie left here to-night for Philadelphia, from which city he will not return until sometime next week. He has issued an order to commandants of navy-yards directing them to obey the orders of Admiral Porter the same as if they were signed by himself. Mr. Ashley, the new Governor of Montana Territory, left here to-night, and will shortly start for the future scene of his labors.

THE FINDING OF THE DYER COURT.

It is rumored to-night that the finding of the Dyer Court of Inquiry will be favorable to General Dyer, and that he will be acquitted of the charges which led to the investigation.

Dispatches to the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Friday, May 7.

INTERNAL REVENUE MATTERS.

Regulations are being prepared by Solicitor Smith, of the Internal Revenue Bureau, fixing the kind and amount of proof required from railroad companies, corporations and individuals who have been taxed as non-resident aliens under a provision of the Internal Revenue act, which was repealed March 10, 1866, and who now apply to have the amount of tax which was withheld while the act remained in force refunded. The nature of the proof required will be the affidavit of the claimant, attested by an additional affidavit from some other responsible party, and the certificate of the Consular Agent nearest the port to which the claimant belongs that he is a non-resident alien.

INTRODUCTION OF TELEGRAPHS INTO CHINA.

Governor Curtin, President of the East India Telegraph Company, and A. K. McClure, Solicitor of the corporation, had interviews with the Secretaries of State and Navy to-day, in relation to the introduction of telegraphs into China. The Company have a grant procured by Mr. Burlingame when he was the American Minister in China, authorizing them to lay a cable between Canton and Shanghae, thus connecting the commercial cities of the Asiatic coast by telegraph. They have 500 miles of cable ready to ship and lay down, and will have the remaining five hundred miles ready to ship during the Summer. Orders will be issued to the Commander of the Asiatic Squadron to render all the necessary aid and protection. The State Department will instruct our Minister and Consuls to give their official aid to the enterprise. This line will be completed during the present year, and by that time there will be a continuous line from the Mediterranean Sea, by India, to China, thus connecting the commercial cities of the Asiatic coast with Europe and America.

VIRGINIA AFFAIRS.

The Alexandria Union League sent a colored spokesman to the President this morning to ascertain whether a delegation of the League may have a conference with him relative to affairs in Virginia. The President consented to see them to-morrow.

FIVE-TWENTY BONDS.

The Secretary of the Treasury will purchase Five-twenty bonds to the amount of a million dollars each week, and has directed the Assistant Treasurer at New-York to receive proposals therefor.

APPOINTMENTS.

The first two appointments of the Special Customs Agents by Secretary Boutwell were made yesterday, and are Frank E. Howe, for the Second Customs District at New-York, and John T. McLean, for the Second District at San Francisco. Other appointments in this branch of the Treasury service will be made to-day.

The Presidents made the following appointments to-day: Joseph B. Young, Pension Agent at Dubuque, Iowa; Hiram Giddings, Pension Agent at Fort Wayne, Ind.; Geo. M. Van Bureu, Pension Agent for the Invalid Agency at New-York; John G. Blackwell, Receiver of Public Moneys at Huntsville, Ala.; E. M. Gregory, Marshal of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

Collectors of Internal Revenue—Chas. C. Walcott, for the Seventh District of Ohio; Geo. M. Dakin, Ninth District, Indiana; Jesse Duck, Seventeenth District, Ohio; Jonathan C. Willis, Thirteenth District, Illinois; Geo. W. Henderlite, Eighth District, Virginia; Edward E. White, Seventh District, Virginia; Joseph L. Kensinger, Fifteenth District, Ohio.

Assessors of Internal Revenue—Michael Scanlan, Third District, New-York; Adamso Newkirk, Eighth District, Tennessee; Josiah Miland, Seventh District, Virginia.

The following detectives in the Internal Revenue Bureau were to-day reappointed for the South: Otis T. Presbery and L. Hawley.

PERSONAL.

Attorney-General Hoar returned to Washington this morning, and was attending to the duties of his office.

AMUSEMENTS.

Entertainments this Afternoon and Evening.

THE THEATRES.

All the theatres announce matinée entertainments to-day. At Wallack's, an afternoon performance of "Caste" may be witnessed, while the last opportunities to applaud "The Tempest" at the Grand Opera House, "La Perichole" at the Fifth-avenue Theatre, the Elise Holt Troupe at the Waverley, and the ever-popular Japanese at the New-York Circus, are offered at each of these houses. This evening, "Wild Oats" will be the play at Booth's, while the pantomime of "Robinson Crusoe" will be enacted at Wood's Museum, and a new burlesque combination will make a first appearance at the Waverley.

MESSE SOLENNELLE—PHILHARMONIC CONCERT.

Rossini's "Messe Solennelle" will be sung by Miss Kellogg, Mme. Testa and Signori Boetti and Antonucci at the Academy of Music this afternoon. In the evening the dilettanti will attend the sixth Philharmonic concert, in which Mr. Edwin Booth, tragedian, Mr. Charles H. Jarvis, pianist, the German Liederkranz Society and an orchestra of one hundred performers are to coöperate. A performance of "Lucrezia Borgia," (the opera,) by the pupils of Professor Duschnitz, we also note, can be attended at the French Theatre.

ORGAN CONCERT AT PLYMOUTH CHURCH.

Henry G. Thunder, organist of St. Augustine Church, Philadelphia, will play at the fifteenth concert at Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, to-day.

Reduction of Cable Tolls.

From the New-York Telegrapher, May 8.

We are authorized to state that, at the meeting last week of the Executive Committee which controls the business of the Atlantic Cable, and by agreement of all the parties interested, the reduction of the charges for transmission of dispatches by the cable, which has been for some weeks under consideration, was finally decided upon. Previous announcements in the newspapers, including that in the Western Union official organ, that this reduction had been ordered, were, as we heretofore stated, premature and incorrect.

On and after June 1 the tariff on dispatches between this City and England will be ten dollars (gold) for ten words or less, and one dollar (gold) for each word in excess of the limit. A discount of fifty per cent. will be made on dispatches of general or political news to the Press for publication. Commercial and financial Press dispatches will, however, continue to be charged at the full rates.

Correction—Note from Senator Creamer.

STATE OF NEW-YORK, SENATE CHAMBER, }
ALBANY, May 6, 1869. }

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

My attention has been called to an article in your paper, emanating from your Albany correspondent, which states that I am endeavoring to have the Assembly bill to regulate the sale of gas amended. This is a mistake, as I am in favor of the bill as it passed the Assembly. I have always supported bills restricting the gas monopolies of our City, and I intend to vote for the bill now before the Senate, and shall use every exertion to make it a law. Respectfully,

THOS. J CREAMER, Senator Sixth District.

EUROPEAN NEWS BY MAIL.

ARRIVAL AT BOSTON OF THE STEAMSHIP CHINA.

The Cunard steamship China reached Boston Thursday afternoon. She sailed from Liverpool, says a Boston journal, on the 27th of April, took her departure from Queenstown at 5 o'clock P. M., on the 28th, and entered the harbor of Boston, after an unprecedented run of only seven days and twenty-two and a half hours. Her greatest speed on any one day was 375 miles, and she averaged fourteen knots an hour all the way over. She experienced fair weather during the whole voyage, and her passengers, of whom she had eighty-seven in the first cabin, were landed here in excellent spirits, naturally excited by so short and pleasant a trip. They speak in the warmest terms of praise of the ship, and of her gallant commander, Captain Hockly, who, by his genial personal qualities and fine seamanship, has won the respect of all who have had the good fortune to cross the seas with him. The numerous company of first-class passengers brought by the China, remarks our contemporary, attests the popularity of both ship and commander. It is the largest number landed in Boston from any European steamer for some time past. She also had 239 steerage passengers.

It is announced on the authority of Mr. Dickens' doctors that he will not be able to read for several months.

The French semi-official journals publish the following note: "Several organs of the Press announce that an arrangement was signed on the 18th of this month between the Tunisian Government and a great financial establishment of Paris, for the conversion of the debts of the Regency, the execution of the treaty to be placed under the guarantee and superintendence of France, England and Italy. The French Government has not as yet received any official communication concerning the act in question, consequently it has not been able to accept, on its own account, any such arrangement."

The Administration of the French Mint has just voted the sum necessary for striking a medal to commemorate the centenary of the birth of Napoleon I. A copy in gold will be presented to the Emperor: others, in silver, to members of the Imperial family; and in bronze to the chief personages of the State.

M. Edgar Quinet, the eminent French writer, who has lived for seventeen years in exile, has refused to stand as a candidate for Paris, though invited to do so by an influential body of the electors. His primary objection is an unwillingness to take the oath of allegiance to the Emperor.

A dastardly attempt was made on the night of April 18 to upset the special train by which the King of Italy was traveling to Naples, but fortunately it was thwarted by the vigilance of one of the men employed on the line. A large quantity of stones had been piled up across the rails, within a tunnel through which the train had to pass, near the station of Foggia. The signalman stationed there discovered the plot, and stopped the train before it had reached the tunnel. After the obstruction had been removed the train proceeded on its way.

King George of Hanover had addressed a protest to the Sovereigns of Europe against the sequestration of his property by the Prussian Government. He denies that he maintained the Hanoverian Legion in France with any hostile designs on Prussia. "How was it possible," the King asks, "that some 700 or 800 unarmed refugees could compromise the safety of a State like Prussia? How does it happen that at Berlin it was declared to be necessary to take defensive measures against them? The only thing which is true is that I did not leave these political refugees without assistance." In like manner His Majesty denies that the speech he made at a family gathering was open to the construction put upon it. He did but express confidence in Heaven and in his rights.

Both Houses of the Hungarian Diet were opened April 24 by the Emperor Francis Joseph in person. The speech from the Throne delivered by His Majesty states that though the State organization was regulated at the last session of the Diet, still the favorable results then arrived at were not in themselves sufficient guarantees for the welfare of the country. His Majesty therefore invited the Diet to coöperate with him in introducing domestic reforms, and promised that to that end bills should be laid before it relative to the civil and criminal law, municipal reform, the reorganization of the Upper House, a revision of the Electoral and Press laws, as well as measures in reference to the right of public meeting, association, superior educational establishments, the University system, commercial regulations, joint-stock companies, new railways, public works, financial reform, and international treaties. With regard to foreign politics, His Majesty said: "The friendly relations which subsist with us and foreign Powers permitted a hope for the maintenance of peace, so necessary for the execution of internal reforms." This speech was received with loud cheering. During the inaugural ceremony the Hungarian and Crotian tricolors were hoisted beside the royal standard on the castle of Buda.

The King opened the session of the Portuguese Cortes April 24. In his speech from the throne His Majesty said that the Budget as presented would require important alterations. Alluding to the mutiny which occurred lately in the regiment under orders to embark for the coast of Mozambique, the King stated that the Government had promptly restored order. In reference to the state of the finances, His Majesty said that it demanded the serious attention of the members, since the excess of the expenditure over the revenue was a source of anxiety. Efficacious measures for the payment of the floating debt, for the reduction of the deficit, and for a just and equal distribution of the burdens arising from taxation, would be introduced by the Government.

The Levant Herald mentions that a shock of earthquake was felt in Constantinople on April 19. No damage was done, but stone houses of the most solid construction were shaken. The vibration was from north to south, and it was felt on both sides of the Bosphorus.

AMERICAN TOPICS.

The Responsibility of American Statesmen at Home and Abroad—Effects of the Illusive Authority of Representatives in Foreign Countries.

From the London Daily News, April 26.

The delay which has attended the attempt to pass through the United States Senate a ratification of Mr. Seward's purchase of the Island of St. Thomas from Denmark, is certainly embarrassing to the latter Power and its dependency, but it is doubtful whether a contemporary is correct in attributing it to "the enmity of the Senate toward the Ex-President and Mr. Seward." It is hardly the fault of the American Senate if Danish Ministers read the Constitution of the United States carelessly, and ascribe to a Secretary of State powers which he does not possess. During the late civil war it seemed necessary that the Washington Administration should be permitted certain quasi-legislative functions under what was called the "war power;" but the complaint of the Congress is that Mr. Seward contracted in those days certain habits not quite consistent with the normal functions of the Government. When President Jefferson purchased of France the vast territory of Louisiana at a trifling cost, he acknowledged to the Senate that he had dono what was unconstitutional, but appealed for the approval and indemnity which were cordially conceded on the ground that he had thereby secured what all held to be a great advantage. When Mr. Seward purchased from Russia the Territory of Alaska, the act was none the less extra-constitutional, while the advantage was more doubtful, and nothing but a friendly disposition toward Russia availed to overcome the reluctance of the Senate in confirming it. It is probable that similar considerations may avail to secure the ratification of the more valuable West Indian station; but if it shall prove otherwise, it will be at least some compensation for the disagreeable features of the case that the world will be reminded that America is a Republican Government, and that no Administration has power to conclude treaties with foreign Powers without consultation with the Legislature.

Recent events have shown that Denmark is not the only country which requires a better understanding of this fact. For example, here in England, when Mr. Reverdy Johnson agreed to a treaty for the settlement of the American claims, a leading Conservative organ insisted, day after day, that his action was in itself final, and that the Senate had nothing to say about it. If an English newspaper could make such a mistake, it is hardly wonderful that others could have regarded the treaty as in some moral sense binding, and should have deemed its rejection by the Senate as an act of peculiar discourtesy. It certainly would have been so had it been France or Prussia which had similarly rejected the action of its own Minister. But there is no trace of any consciousness in America that the country was at all involved in the proceedings of Mr. Reverdy Johnson. It is manifestly desirable for the mutual good understanding of all parties that the fact should be recognized that the traditional standard of diplomatic intercourse has been materially modified in America, and that the action of Cabinets at Washington and their Ministers abroad should be viewed in more strict accordance with their partial powers as limited and defined by the Constitution of their country.

The fact to which we have adverted is a very grave one, as the complications which have arisen from the failure to weigh it sufficiently show. We hear from time to time of a party in America, including some eminent statesmen, which maintains that the spirit of their Constitution and people is inconsistent with the retention of the ordinary form and machinery of old-world diplomacy. They hold that the acts of an American Minister in a foreign country cannot mean what is meant by the acts of a similar agent from a Monarchy, and that their international intercourse should be conducted exclusively by special envoys for special purposes. This opinion found considerable expression during the discussion in Congress some time ago concerning the wearing of court costumes by American representatives abroad, the late President of the Senate and others declaring that in any dress the American Ministers could only appear in false characters at foreign courts. Recent experience shows how easily an American Minister may, innocently on his part, be invested by many people in the country to which he is sent with an illusive authority, which, when it disappears, may subject him to imputations really unwarrantable. And so long as Cabinet Ministers at Washington are not directly responsible to Congress, that which is the real limitation of their power is liable to be understood as the absence of any check to their authority, and when their dealings with other Governments come to be questioned or set aside by the Senate, it is but natural that the Governments in question should feel as if they had been imposed upon. Of course such feelings could not arise were the American Constitution more attentively perused, as it is very likely to be after such practical illustrations of its bearing on other countries as have been furnished by the incidents to which we have referred.

Total		$608,726
Amount to be levied and collected in the taxes of the present year to provide for the payment of one-fifth of $450,000, in accordance with an act of the Legislature passed April 23, 1867, by which bonds for $450,000 were directed to be issued for the purchase of sites and erection of school-houses		90,000
Total		$698,276

Mr. Burr moved that the report be laid on the table, and made the special order for consideration at a special meeting to be held May 18, at 4 o'clock.

An invitation was received from the Grand Army of the Republic to accompany them on the 31st inst., to the various Cemeteries for the purpose of strewing flowers on the graves of soldiers who died for the salvation of the country; also, a request that the day be declared a holiday in the public schools. The invitation was accepted, and Monday, the 31st inst., designated as requested.

Mr. Cadley, of the Committee on Music, reported in favor of having the sum of $5,000 placed on the budget for the purchase of pianos for schools. The motion was laid on the table until the special meeting.

Mr. Winant moved that the sum of $25,000 for building No. 24 be added to the budget. Deferred for consideration at special meeting.

Mr. Perry moved that the sum of $8,000, for purchase of site for new primary school in the northern part of the Seventeenth Ward, be placed on the budget, and the subject referred for consideration at the special meeting.

Mr. Roe offered the following for adoption:

Resolved, That the Committee on Supplies be and are hereby directed to advertise in the Brooklyn and New-York papers for estimates for the necessary supply of coal and wood needed by the Board of Education for the next season, the Board reserving to itself the right to reject all or any bids that may not be deemed for the public interest, said estimates to be issued at a regular meeting of the Board.

Mr. Kinsella seconded the resolution.

Mr. Seabury said the resolution was out of order, as the purchases had been made under and by the authority of the Board.

Mr. Roe said if that was the law then it was time for it to be changed.

Mr. Seabury said the manner in which the Committee on Supplies had acted in the premises relative to the purchase of coal, was the same as it always had been, as Mr. Northup could inform them.

Mr. Northup said that except in one instance, in the course of his experience, the Committee on Supplies had advertised for proposals.

Mr. Rhodes said he had been inquiring about coal, and found that good Locust Mountain coal could have been purchased for $5 per long ton, and for $1 25 per ton it could be stored away in the school buildings.

Mr. Kinsella hoped that debate on the subject would not be suppressed, for, if it was, he at least would find a method of ventilating what he had to say outside of the Board. He hoped, as coal had not been purchased for the schools in the Eastern District, the subject should be properly considered. He asked the Chairman if he deemed the contract made by the Committee binding on the Board.

The President said that in his opinion the contract, if made, was binding.

Mr. Kinsella said that he must regard himself as an interloper. If one or two gentlemen were to conduct business without consultation with the Board, he thought he and his associates in that Board were placed in a false position.

Mr. Northup asked if the contract had been signed by the President of the Board.

The President replied that he was informed that the contract had been signed by the Committee and by the other parties.

Mr. Northup said he supposed it was binding then.

Mr. Hunter said it was binding if it was in accordance with law.

Mr. Carroll said the Board was to blame for the transaction in question, as they all sought to shirk their duty and leave its performance to such committees as would do the work.

Mr. Kinsella said the Board was on record as not advertising for proposals for supplies generally.

Mr. Roe said he introduced the resolution for the purpose of bringing the subject before the Board and having it discussed. He asked leave to withdraw it.

Permission was granted and the resolution was withdrawn.

Mr. Roe gave notice that he would move at a future meeting of the Board an amendment to the by-laws to provide for the manner of making contracts.

Mr. Kinsella offered the following, which was adopted:

"That a committee of three be appointed to investigate the system under which the supplies, books, &c., used by this Board are purchased, and the workings of the same, and to report to this Board if a better system than that now followed cannot be devised."

Mr. Stearns moved the following amendment to section 8, article 5, by-laws, which was adopted:

"But no contract or agreement, which shall involve an expenditure exceeding $100, shall be binding, unless approved by the Board and subscribed by the President and Secretary."

Mr. Northup moved that the Board go into a ballot for the election of a Deputy Superintendent.

Mr. Kinsella alluded to the manner in which Mr. Cruikshank had been ousted from his office as Deputy Superintendent.

Dr. Conklin said that Mr. Cruikshank was not the man for the vacancy, and he hoped the Board would not reëlect him. The Superintendent of Schools in the City had never devised any method for the teaching of the primary departments. The teachers had no system, and took their places in the schools at small salaries, teaching as they pleased. The interests of the primary departments in the schools of Brooklyn required that a man properly adapted to the duties of the position of Deputy Superintendent should be elected to fill the vacancy; he had no doubt such a man was to be found.

Mr. Carroll asked if the question under consideration was in order.

The President declared it out of order.

Mr. Kinsella appealed from the decision of the Chair. He said he had been associated with Dr. Conklin on the Teachers' Committee, and he had never hinted a word as to the demoralization of the primary schools. He did not think that the attack made upon the Superintendent over the shoulders of Mr. Cruikshank was conceived in bad temper.

The Board refused to sustain the chair by 16 nays against 13 yeas.

Mr. Frothingham moved as a substitute that Mr. Cruikshank be continued in his present position until otherwise ordered by the Board.

Mr. Baylis said he differed very much with Dr. Conklin as to the condition of the public schools. He believed that the schools were in excellent condition, and would compare favorably with schools which he had visited in Boston, Baltimore, Toledo, Chicago and other places. They had energetic teachers and able principals, full of zeal for the welfare of the education of the children. Mr. Cruikshank had come to them with the loftiest commendations from men of learning and men of undoubted judgment as to the qualities he possessed for educational work.

Mr. Conklin observed that he had said nothing about the character of Mr. Cruikshank, he merely claimed that he was not the man for the place—not the man adapted for the duties pertaining to the conduct of the primary departments. He moved that Mr. Frothingham's motion be laid on the table.

The substitute was adopted and the Board adjourned.

THE NAVY-STREET HOMICIDE.

Inquest on the Body of James Dunnigan.

Coroner Jones, last evening, commenced an inquest on the body of James Dunnigan, who died from injuries sustained at a fracas in Navy-street, near Johnson, on Sunday evening, the 2d inst.

The first and principal witness examined was James Dowd, who testified that he was in Johnson-street on Sunday evening, the 2d inst., between 6 and 8 o'clock, and saw a crowd at the corner of Navy and Johnson streets; he met James Dunnigan; deceased came across the street, and said there was going to be a fight; deceased then went into the crowd, and shortly after came over again, and said he was cut, and said that "that young fellow did it," but he did not point to any person as he spoke, nor did he mention any name; deceased exposed his wound, and his bowels protruded; witness heard a pistol shot, but saw no one running; he has not been threatened by any one if he testified the truth of what he saw; deceased was stabbed between the ribs and the hip.

Mrs. Catharine O'Neil, wife of Patrick O'Neil, saloon keeper at the corner of Johnson and Navy streets, testified to the fact of Kilmead, one of the men who was wounded, going to the saloon on Sunday afternoon, and again in the evening several times, endeavoring to gain an entrance for the purpose of obtaining drinks; the last time he went there he used a coarse epithet in relation to her husband. The Coroner excused Mrs. O'Neil from giving any protracted testimony last evening, as she was in a sickly condition.

The other witnesses examined were Peter O'Brien, Patrick Redden and James Redden, none of whom appeared to know anything of the fight, except that a pistol-shot was fired by some person whom they did not see.

At this point the inquest was adjourned.

There are five persons under arrest on suspicion of being implicated in the homicide, viz., Robert Berry, James Howard, James Carberry, John Gilroy and Patrick O'Neil.

Workingmen's Union.

A regular monthly meeting of the Workingmen's Union took place last evening at Early-Closing Hall, No. 267 Bowery, Mr. Jessup, the President, being in the chair. A letter was read from E. W. Clarke, of Springfield, Mass., requesting a copy of the Trades' Union by-laws and constitution, in order to form a similar union in that city. A letter was read from Norfolk, Va., to the same effect. Three delegates were then received from the Bakers' Union. Mr. Jessup, who was on the Committee appointed to take into consideration the offer of the Tontine Life Insurance Company to give members of the Union especial advantages in insuring their lives, reported that the Committee met last Sunday and would meet again next Sunday.

The President then called for reports from the Journeymen Tailors' Union, the Carpenters' and Joiners' Union, the Typographical Union, the Operative Plasterers, the Journeymen Horseshoers, the Waiters' Association, the Journeymen Bakers, the New-York Slate Roofers, the Six Divisions of Laborers of New-York, the United Coopers No. 4, New-York Paper Stainers' Union, the Bricklayers' Union No. 12, the Bricklayers' Union No. 2, the Stair Builders, the Bricklayers' Union No. 4, the Iron Moulders' Union, the Clothing Cutters' Union, the Varnishers and Polishers, and the Journeymen Morocco Finishers' Union.

Among the reports presented, was one from the Tailors' Union, saying that fifty of the hands at Brooks Brothers' establishment, had struck for a higher scale of wages, and more would probably do so next week.

Mr. Carroll, of the Iron Moulders' Union No. 5, said that an advance to ten per cent. would be demanded on wages, to take effect next Monday. Prospects were favorable.

Mr. Daly, of the Varnishers and Polishers, said that a demand for an increase had been made and satisfied.

Mr. Crogan, of the Bricklayers' Union No. 4, said that a demand would shortly be made for eight hours' work by his organization. His employer, he said, was a thoroughgoing eight-hour man, and had asked him if the measure was not to be carried out this Summer.

Mr. Blissert, of the Tailors' Union, then read a proposition to the workingmen of the City to the effect that they should associate together for protection and relief, and cultivate a better feeling and understanding mutually. The labor organizations of the City united in a brotherhood would have giant strength and defy opposition, and it was desirable to raise a fund of from $25,000 to $100,000, in order to support any society on strike. The proposition was tabled on the score that it would be difficult to collect the funds, and that, if collected, the money might be, to a great extent, uselessly squandered.

The President called attention to the present strike of the brickmakers of Haverstraw, who had been in the habit each Summer of working from sunrise to sunset, and now desired that their day's work should be limited to 11½ hours. They had, many of them, departed for other localities, but those who had fixed homes and families had remained behind and were in distress. They had been aided by $700 from the Laborers' Association at Verplanck's Point, but the money had been consumed. They asked aid. The President also mentioned the strike of the potters at Trenton, and their appeal for assistance. He recommended appropriations for the two bodies from the various individual labor organizations.

The meeting then adjourned.

Alleged Incendiary Fire.

About 5 o'clock last evening smoke was seen issuing from a second floor back room of the house No. 196 Greene-street occupied by Michael Peters. This fire was extinguished before it had destroyed the bed in which it was discovered, and at that moment smoke was found proceeding from a dark bedroom between the front and back room, where a lot of clothing was found on fire, and the flames were not extinguished before a third fire was discovered in a bed in the front attic bedroom, where it had again broken out in a bed, and, although the flames had gained some headway, they were quickly quenched. This multiplication of fires in the same building was considered suspicious, and Peters, and his wife Rosa, were arrested by Officer Meschutt, of the Fifteenth Precinct, and taken to the Mercer-street Station-house, where they were locked up by Captain Caffrey to await investigation. The Police report that there was very little furniture in the house at the time of the fire, and that they found a policy for $900 in the Germania Insurance Company safely stowed away in the trunk of Peters, which was ready for removal, and was also taken to the Station-house. The vigilance of Officer Meschutt and the promptness of Engine Company No. 33 alone prevented the destruction of the building, which was only damaged to the amount of $100, while the damage to furniture is estimated at about the same figure. Peters and his wife earnestly deny having fired the house, but they will be arraigned this morning before Justice Ledwith, when all the facts will doubtless be ascertained.

Phrenocosmian Society.

The seventeenth anniversary of the Phrenocosmian Society of the College of New-York was celebrated yesterday evening at the Academy of Music, and attracted a large number of people. The exercises consisted of orations interspersed with music. M. C. Julien, President, delivered the "President's Address." The other speakers and their subjects were as follows: T. F. Miller, "Art;" E. M. Shepard, "Universities and the Modern Temptation;" M. H. Cardozo, "Quackery;" C. B. Jessup, "Who is My Neighbor;" C. A. Doremus, "Sun and Stars;" T. H. Burchard, "The Higher Liberty;" N. Clark, Jr., "France and the French;" W. De F. Edwards, "Passion and Principle;" G. A. Baker, "Cap and Bells." The evening closed with the "Honorary Oration" by Rev. Geo. Nixon, A. M.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

New-York.

Rev. T. A. Lodge, of Morrisania, will preach in the Forsyth-street Methodist Episcopal Church (near Division-street) on Sunday morning next, in behalf of the fund which is being raised to rebuild his church. It may be remembered that the former edifice was constructed of newly-patented bricks, which crumbled to pieces after a brief exposure to the elements, and the building fell to the ground. The congregation, being a poor one, has been compelled to send abroad for help, which, thus far, has been liberally rendered by sister churches.

The North Baptist Church, corner of Christopher and Bedford streets, reopens to-morrow, after having been closed several weeks, thoroughly renovated and improved. An invitation is extended to all who have ever been connected with the Church to meet them on this occasion.

At 10 o'clock last evening a fire occurred in the bookstore of Frederick Wormlhoms, No. 143 Division-street, caused by explosion of liquid gas, and doing a damage of $700 to the stock, which was insured for $1,000.

At 10 o'clock last evening Catharine McArdle, aged sixty years, who resided at No. 2 Orchard-street, was run over near her residence by car No. 29 of the Cortlandt-street line and instantly killed. The body was removed to the Eldridge-street Station-house, where the driver was also locked up to await an inquest by the Coroner, which will be held this morning.

Two of the Baptist Churches of this City hold their anniversary to-morrow evening. The Berean Church, corner Bedford and Downing streets, and the Pilgrim, in Thirty-third-street, near Eighth-avenue. The former will be addressed by J. K. Burtis and G. W. Hillman, and the latter by Thos. D. Anderson, D. D., and Halsey W. Knapp.

About 6 o'clock last evening, a boy caused a fire in the saloon of John Lindemann, in the basement of No. 11 East Broadway, by attempting to draw liquid gas while having a lighted candle in his hand. The result was a damage of $100 to stock, which is covered by a policy of $1,500 in the Westchester County Insurance Company.

At 8:30 o'clock last evening the gas escaping in the building No. 74 Crosby-street caught fire from a lamp, but the flames were extinguished by the inmates before any damage had been done.

Insect Powder.

How to Tell the Genuine Article.—Prof. E. Lyon while traveling in Asia, discovered a flower, which, when powdered, is sure death to every kind of Insect, from a Cockroach to a Fly. He protected his discovery by letters-patent, Government medals, &c., put his signature upon every flask of the article, and named it Lyon's Magnetic Insect Powder. He imparted his secret to no one but his successor.

Purchasers of Insect Powder—and it is used in almost every house—must see to it that they are not deceived by worthless imitations and counterfeits. The signature of E. Lyon is the purchaser's guarantee. Look sharp for it, and buy no Insect Powder that does not bear it. It may be had of Druggists and Family Stores, at 25 cents per flask.

"This book is a guide to the best hunting and fishing region of America. It is more; for its descriptions are charming, and the pure gold of enchantment is thrown over them so that the book is bewitching to a novice in the sportsman's art. It is mirthful, for we laughed until our sides ached over some of the sketches. 'The Ball,' and the description of 'Southwick's dancing,' we have hardly recovered from yet. 'Jack-shooting in a foggy night' made our very ribs sore. Some of the sketches are grand masterpieces of fine writing, and the whole work superior. We predict for it an immense sale and a multitude of enthusiastic friends."—Providence Press.

"His 'Adventures in the Wilderness' constitute a capital guide to those who desire to enjoy the free air of heaven and free life by field and flood. There is a great deal of subdued humor and quiet fun in the pages before us; that Jack-shooting adventure is related with great spirit; 'Running the Rapids' kept us almost breathless while we read; 'Phantom Falls' is a weird narrative; and, as a quiet and thoughtful production, let us commend 'Sabbath in the Woods' to readers of all moods of mind."—Philadelphia Press.

THE BRAWNVILLE PAPERS.
By MOSES COIT TYLER.
$1 50.

"It is difficult to conceive how so much good, sensible information on the subject of muscular exercise could have been put into a more readable form. In his sparkle and vivacity, as well as in the wide range of his information and genuine sympathy with his subject, Professor Tyler reminds one strongly of Dr. O. W. Holmes, whose writing on subjects that involve the delicate truths of human hygiene are unequaled in our language. Somewhat in the style of 'Friends in Council,' the characters in the Brawnville Club are made the vehicles of many ideas that the world is tired of in their dull matter-of-fact form, but which being put into the mouths of live people, become absorbing as a romance."—Cleveland Leader.

MRS. SOUTHWORTH'S NEW BOOK
WILL BE PUBLISHED SATURDAY NEXT.
THE CHANGED BRIDES,
BY
MRS. EMMA D. E N. SOUTHWORTH.

Is in press and will be published on SATURDAY, May 15, by T. B. PETERSON & BROTHERS, Philadelphia. It will command a very large sale, as it is fully equal to "Fair Play" and "How He Won Her," which have proved to be two of the best novels ever published, and which are having unprecedented sales, for Mrs. Southworth is, beyond all doubt, the first female novelist of the day. "The Changed Brides" will be issued in a large duodecimo volume of over 500 pages, in uniform style with "Fair Play" and "How He Won Her," and sold by all booksellers at the low price of $1 75 in cloth, or $1 50 in paper cover; or copies will be sent at once by mail, to any place, post-paid, by the publishers, on receipt of the price of the work in a letter to them.

Booksellers are requested to send on their orders at once for what they may want of this book to the publishers,

"Beyond comparison the best story-writer we have."
THE INGHAM PAPERS
BY
EDWARD EVERETT HALE.
1 vol. 16mo. Uniform with "If, Yes, and Perhaps."
$1 50.

"If E. E. Hale ever wrote a story which was not worth reading, we have not seen it. Certainly the ten which make up this volume are at an infinite distance from unreadableness, and the memoir of that reverend member of the church militant, Captain Ingham, will be keenly relished by all his friends. America is fortunate in having such a story-teller as Mr. Hale. His simple, rollicking style, his hearty whole-souled fun, and his real dramatic genius, will be more justly appreciated twenty years hence than they are to-day."—Hartford Courant.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

A moderate number of persons attended the sales yesterday, and the bidding was quite fair. The attractions were limited. Messrs. BLEECKER, SON & Co. had a small sale of Laurens-street property, and Mr. JOSEPH MCGUIRE sold a number of lots located at Paterson, N. J.

To-day there will be no sales; next week will be a very busy one. Several important sales of country property are announced, and as the demand for out-of-town property is steadily increasing and the plots offered quite desirable, it is fair to expect large audiences and good sales.

CARD.

The Opera of Lurline was composed by the lamented William Vincent Wallace in the City of New-York in 1858, and was represented at Covent Garden Theatre in 1860. The Opera was an immense success, and ran with unabated enthusiasm for upward of a hundred nights, and has since been continuously played in London and the principal English cities with the like happy results. Various attempts have been made by managers in America to present Lurline to a New-York audience, but owing to the enormous expense entailed by its production, and the uncertain condition of operatic matters here, such attempts have never as yet been crowned with realization.

The undersigned then feels it his duty to state that, thanks to the hearty and liberal coöperation of the production of this delightful Opera will become a fait accompli, and the list of art works possible in New-York, become enriched by yet another prize.

MR. JAMES FISK BEING THE PROPRIETOR OF THE MAGNIFICENT SCENERY, (PAINTED EXPRESSLY LAST YEAR AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE FOR THIS PIECE,)

has not only placed that extensive and very valuable property at the disposal for this enterprise, but has also furnished the most costly and gorgeous costumes and stage properties ever seen upon the American stage, and has further provided the means of securing a double Opera Company and a superb Ballet Troupe, in order that nothing may be wanting for the perfect, full, and worthy representation of this charming Opera. With the assured hope that Lurline will at once take its place high in public favor, and that the expenditure thereon of labor, mind, and money may be recompensed, the undersigned leaves LURLINE to the judgment of the public and the Press.

ALBANY.

Slaughter of Railroad Bills—Passage of the Harlem Depot Bill—Adjournment—The Canal Appropriation Bill, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Friday, May 7, 1869.

The Metropolitan Steam Railroad bills were slaughtered in a body by the Senate this morning. The Central Underground, known as "Brown's bill," came first in the third readings, and was defeated by a vote of 15 to 13. The Two-tier Road, or "Swain's bill," was next in order, and shared the same fate—11 voting in its favor and 20 against. "Undenbergh's Underground" has already been reported adversely; two or three other schemes for elevated or underground railroads were smothered in Committee, and the only thing left on the track now is the "Arcade." This has been reported in both Houses, but is not yet reached in General Orders, and probably will not be this session. It is the greatest favorite of all, and if it were not too late to get it to a vote, would stand a good chance of passing. It is a shame that some kind of a plan for a steam railroad in New-York has not received the sanction of the Legislature this session, and shows how little the real needs and interests of the great public are cared for in the general scramble for legislation that shall promote private and party ends. "Swain's bill" for a two-tier road, would have passed but for a provision which authorizes connecting roads and the Board of Supervisors to take stock in it. This secured the opposition of TWEED, and the only Senator of the New-York delegation that voted for the bill was Mr. CREAMER. It is now proposed to move a recommittal with instructions to strike out that clause, so that there is a bare possibility of getting a charter for a steam railroad in New-York this session.

PASSAGE OF THE HARLEM DEPOT BILL.

The New Harlem Passenger Depot bill passed the Senate this morning by a vote of 20 to nothing. The amendment adopted in the Senate will require its return to the Assembly, which may refuse to concur, and thus defeat the bill. Mr. JACKSON, who represents the property owners in the vicinity of the proposed depot, will oppose it to its last stage, and has some hopes of success even yet.

The discussion of the Consolidated Railroad bill was resumed in the Senate this morning after the third reading of bills, and is likely to occupy most of the day; but the bill is bound to pass, and with it the Central Scrip bill.

RESOLUTION FOR ADJOURNMENT.

The Assembly, by a large majority, this morning adopted a joint resolution to adjourn sine die to-morrow (Saturday) morning, at 11 o'clock. It is doubtful whether the Senate concurs.

THE CANAL APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. CHASE, Chairman of the Canal Committee of the Assembly, to-day reported the Canal Appropriation bill that passed the Senate, with the amendments adopted by the House Committee. These amendments reduce the appropriation over half a million of dollars.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

The Clerk read a communication from HENRY LEARY, addressed to "Mr. Legislatur," asking for the change of his name to HENRY BAKER. Mr. MURPHY moved an amendment that it be HENRY YOUNGLOVE UNDERHILL BAKER, out of compliment to the Speaker and Clerk, but it was lost, and the petition was granted as asked for.

THE TAX LEVY.

The County Tax Levy, as reported from the Committee on Cities, was ordered to a third reading this morning without opposition. The ring propose to make the grand fight on their substitute, by moving a recommittal, when both bills come up for third reading, which will be this evening or to-morrow morning. S.

The Consolidated Railroad and Central Scrip Bills—The Excise Bill—Debates on the City and County Tax Levies—Success of Tammany.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ALBANY, Friday, May 7.

The Senate discussed the Consolidated Railroad bill and the Central Scrip bill at great length, in Committee of the Whole, at the afternoon session, and after adopting several amendments, which will be found in the regular report, ordered both bills to a third reading.

THE EXCISE BILL.

The Excise bill that passed the Assembly, excluding lager-beer from the operation of the law, was then taken up, and Senator CREAMER made a strong speech in its favor. Had he displayed half as much ability and zeal on behalf of the Gas bill, he might have insured its passage before this time. Mr. VAN PETTEN, Mr. O'DONNELL, Mr. FOLGER and others opposed the bill, and a motion to strike out the enacting clause was carried by a strict party vote. A strong pressure was brought to bear on Senators WILLIAMS and MATTOON to vote with the Democrats, and report has it that they were offered $10,000 each to go against their party, but they stood firm for once.

THE CITY TAX LEVY.

The City Tax Levy come up for a third reading in the Assembly this evening, when Mr. HODGES, Republican, from Brooklyn, moved to refer it back to the Committee on Cities, with instructions to amend by substituting the levy introduced by him last evening. Mr. GLEASON opposed the motion, and said he was surprised at the audacity of the gentleman from Kings, who, as a member of the Committee on Cities, professed to be desirous of cutting down every item, in now proposing to substitute a tax levy increasing the amount reported by the Committee nearly $4,000,000. He proceeded to expose the iniquity of this last bold move of the Tammany "ring," and said it was a proposition to extract millions of dollars from the pockets of the tax-payers of New-York, to be used in defeating Republican candidates for office in that City. And all this was to be done by the aid of Republican votes in this Legislature. Mr. JACOBS made a few remarks in support of the motion of Mr. HODGES, and closed by moving the previous question. The motion was carried, and the main question ordered by a vote of 60 to 59. Mr. SELKREG called for the enforcement of the fifty-seventh rule, for clearing the chamber of persons not entitled to the floor; and several New-York Democrats called for the enforcement of the rule against a member of the Citizens' Association who occupied a seat in the chamber. The floor being cleared of outsiders, the Clerk commenced calling the roll. Mr. ALLABEN, of Kings, being the second name on the list, asked to be excused from voting for the purpose of getting in a five-minutes speech against the ring levy; but the Democracy were determined that there should be no discussion by the Republicans on the bill, and they set up such a yelling and hooting that Mr. ALLABEN's voice, which is by no means weak, was completely drowned in the uproar. When the name of Judge CAMPBELL was called he made his five-minutes speech and was respectfully listened to. He said he had been a resident of New-York City twenty-five years, and thought he knew something of her needs. He considered the items of this substitute tax levy extravagant and uncalled for, and deserving the condemnation of every right-minded man. Mr. HUSTED made a very earnest speech against the bill, and said he was surprised that the gentleman from Kings should cut off the debate by calling the previous question on so important a measure as this. Mr. LABAU also opposed the bill, and entered his solemn protest against it and all the corrupt influences by which it was surrounded. Mr. SELKREG called on the clerk to read several items of the substitute bill in order to show the amount of the increase, which was done. He said that the total increase over the bill reported from the Committee was upward of $3,000,000. He did not propose to vote for such a bill as this, and rest under the imputation which would attach to every Republican who supported it of deserting his party, and sustaining a measure designed to aid in defeating that party at the next election. He warned every Republican who voted for it that he would from that moment seal his political doom. Mr. WALKER closed the Republican protest against the bill, and appealed to every member of that party in the House to vote against such an iniquitous measure. He was aware, he said, after the scenes already enacted here, that words were useless, and that the bill was bound to pass; but he could do no less than enter his earnest protest against it. The Clerk announced the vote to be—Ayes, 63; nays, 58; and the Speaker declared the motion of Mr. HODGES carried. The names will be found in the regular report.

THE COUNTY TAX LEVY.

The County tax levy next came up for a third reading, and Mr. JACOBS moved to recommit, with instructions to insert the substitute levy. The same scene was then reenacted as in the City levy. Mr. HUSTED afforded the honest men of the Chamber the consolation of prophecying that Governor HOFFMAN would never sign the bill if it passed the Legislature. Mr. LABAU prophecied he would sign it, and would throw the responsibility on the Republican Legislature that pased the bill. The County levy shared the same fate as the City, and both will doubtless pass the Assembly to-morrow, and be sent to the Senate for concurrence, when the battle will be fought over again. Tammany is playing for a big stake, and will doubtless win in the upper House, as she has in the lower, by bribery.

THE REGISTRY AND NATURALIZATION FRAUDS BILLS.

The amended Registry law and the law to prevent frauds in naturalization both passed the Assembly, receiving the vote of every Republican present.

Suicide in the Street.

At 11:30 o'clock last evening, a young man was walking leisurely through West Nineteenth-street, and when opposite No. 404, between Ninth and Tenth avenues, suddenly drew a revolver from his pocket, placed the muzzle to his temple, and fired. He fell to the sidewalk a corpse, and the bystanders instantly hastening to the spot, recognized the body as that of ISAAC E. ALLEN, a young man only 21 years of age, residing at No. 445 West Nineteenth street, where he leaves a wife and child. It was subsequently ascertained that he had been lately much depressed in mind in consequence of business troubles, and it is presumed that this was the cause of his self-destruction. The body was removed to the Sixteenth Precinct Station-house, in Twentieth-street, between Seventh and Eighth avenues, where an inquest will be held to-day.

The Death of O'Hara in Jail.

The inquest on the body of JOHN O'HARA, a Fifth Ward, Jersey City, politician, who died suddenly in the County Jail a week ago, was concluded before Coroner WARREN last night. Dr. FINN, the County Physician, testified that death was caused by congestion of the brain, superinduced by strong drink.

The jury rendered a verdict that the deceased came to his death by the sudden shock he received from his incarceration, causing inflammation of the right lung and congestion of the brain.

It is obviously impossible for any one mind to embrace with accuracy all the various departments of human knowledge and creative skill. But so far as the manufacture of Hats is concerned we feel confident that KNOX, of No. 212 Broadway, has fathomed all the depths of art. It is the best place in the city for gentlemen to procure a head covering.
